AMALGAMATION ISSUE AT U.F.A. CONVENTION

Farmer Union Hangs In Balance

Motion Defeated To Facilitate Action To Unify Two Units

Amalgamation hung in the balance at the United Farmers of Alberta convention at the Macdonald hotel Wednesday.

Defeating a motion that the nomination and election of officers be deferred until the amalgamation issue becomes clear, delegates voted for the first time against a resolution designed to facilitate steps towards amalgamation of the U.F.A. and the United Farmers of Canada.

This motion, at the Wednesday afternoon session, was rescinded and the election was deferred until after disposition of the entire amalgamation question.

The motion brought to the floor of the convention by Roy McBride, Reno, asked that the nomination for president of the U.F.A. be deferred till the amalgamation issue is made more clear. He argued that nomination and election of officers at this time may jeopardize the possibilities of amalgamation.

The amalgamation question will again come up for discussion during the evening session commencing at 8 p.m. Wednesday. Four of the six points that are being used by both organizations as a basis of discussion were passed almost unanimously by the delegates during Tuesday's sittings. The question of name and co-operatives remains for discussion Wednesday evening.

Gardiner Nominated For Chief

Robert Gardiner was again nominated for the position of president. He has occupied the post since 1931. Roy McBride, organizer in the Peace River area and resident of Reno, was nominated to oppose Mr. Gardiner.

James Bentley, Edmonton, and J. K. Sutherland, Hanna, withdrew their names to leave the field open to Mr. Gardiner and Mr. McBride.

Considerable discussion centred around the motion asking for postponement of nominations.

Mr. Bright outlined briefly the growth of the newly-organized implement co-operative in Western Canada during the past two years.

"We believe that the co-operative movement is a basis on which the farming industry will pull itself out from its present place on the brink of bankruptcy," Mr. Bright stated.

"It is firmly believed that the idea of buying and selling co-operatively will bring the western farmer out of the condition created by a system which has permitted manipulation, exploitation and downright skullduggery", he declared.

He mentioned that financial support for a Canadian implement co-operative has been received from many organized co-operatives in other lines in western Canada.

Over 18,000 subscribers have been received in the Saskatchewan section of the company alone, he added.

It is estimated that would cost each farmer in Western Canada about six pounds of wheat per acre to support a machinery co-operative which would work toward reducing the present cost of farm implements, he said.

In answer to a query on the margin of profit on farm implements Mr. Bright quoted figures released from Regina following a price survey in Saskatchewan, and stated that a binder sold for $283 can be laid down in Regina for $156 with freight and taxes included and that a $1,000 tractor can be laid down for $535.

"There is the price structure over which we must have some influence," he added.

The convention does not expect that Hon. James A. MacKinnon, minister of trade and commerce, will be in the city to address the meeting Wednesday evening.

The meeting will attempt to complete the discussion on the question of amalgamation in place of the address scheduled for that time.

Churchill Not To Broadcast Talk In House

LONDON, Jan. 21. — (CP) — Prime Minister Churchill, with his finger on the pulse of the House of Commons, withdrew today his own motion to permit an electrical transcription for later broadcasting of parliament's forthcoming review of the war in the Pacific.

After he had counted parliamentary noses overnight, the Prime Minister announced good-naturedly: "Since there seems to be such a difference of opinion about this motion, I don't intend to stress it."

Leslie Hore-Belisha, former secretary of war, and other critics called the withdrawal a democratic gesture.

LION'S SHARE

The objection to the motion was that the Prime Minister's recording would get the lion's share of the radio time, with little or none for his critics.

Mr. Churchill had wished to have his own remarks recorded so that by electrical transcription they could be broadcast to the United Kingdom, the Dominions and the United Nations, and thus spare him the necessity of repeating his House of Commons speech in a special broadcast.

In withdrawing his motion, the Prime Minister explained: "My reluctance to do the same thing twice over on the same day arises less from fatigue than from a certain inartistic quality naturally inseparable from such a rehash."

It was noted that Mr. Churchill's broadcast proposal was made immediately after his return from North America, where he made a great hit with speeches before the Canadian parliament and the United States congress.

SEA, AIR FORCES AID IN MALAYAN DEFENCE

Allied Warships Shell Japanese Armies

By The Canadian Press

British sea and air forces augmented the land defence of Malaya today. Allied warships shelled the Malay jungle coast 60 miles north of Singapore while Royal Air Force bombers launched "heavy and successful attacks" against Japanese-held airdromes on the peninsula.

In Burma heavy fighting was reported in the Kawkareik area, 45 miles east of Moulmein—between that airport town and the Thailand border.

A Tokyo broadcast claimed—without confirmation elsewhere—that Japanese spearheads in Malaya had thrust within six miles of Johore Strait, mile-wide water barrier to Singapore, and asserted that large Japanese forces were moving up for a direct assault on the island stronghold.

MAIN BATTLE SECTOR

British headquarters, however, declared that the main battle sector was still many miles away, with heavy fighting raging in northwest Johore state, in the Bakri and Bukit Payong areas, where British artillery inflicted heavy losses on the invaders in close range firing.

There was a rising casualty toll in Singaopre, with 64 persons killed and 154 wounded in an attack

Russ Army Drives Past Mozhaisk

By The Canadian Press

Russia celebrated her greatest victory of the war today as the Red armies drove six miles beyond fallen Mozhaisk, 57 miles west of Moscow, in pursuit of Hitler's battered invaders along the Napoleonic road of retreat to Smolensk.

Simultaneously, a bulletin from Hitler's field headquarters acknowledged Soviet troops had broken through German lines on the Upper Donets river — presumably in the fierce battle for the big Donets river steel city of Kharkov, in the Ukraine.

The high command claimed, however, Nazi counter-attacks had thrown the Russians back.

No hint of the defeat of the central (Moscow) front was given the German nation.

BERLIN VERSION

While Hitler's winter-scourged armies fell back along the 70-mile-wide "escape corridor" from Mozhaisk, threatened by Russian flanking thrusts on both sides, the Berlin radio broadcast this version of the struggle:

Woman Found Murdered In Well On Farm

Gruesome discovery was made by R.C.M.P. officers of the Smoky Lake detachment Tuesday when the badly mutilated body of Mrs. Mary Boyarchuk, wife of Sam Boyarchuk, who ended his life by hanging last Friday, was found buried in a shallow, dry well close to the farm home.

The woman's throat had been cut and her body severed into two parts. R.C.M.P. officers of the Edmonton detachment stated Wednesday that they believed the dead woman had been buried in the grave as long ago as last October.

The body of the woman was brought to Edmonton Tuesday night and a post-mortem examination was conducted Wednesday by Dr. John W. Macgregor, assistant pathologist at the University of Alberta. Dr. E. A. Braithwaite, chief provincial coroner, stated that the examination revealed the woman had died from the throat wound.

An inquest into the death opened at Smoky Lake Tuesday immedi-

Conscription In Industry Is Not Yet Imminent

By GRANT DEXTER

Edmonton Bulletin Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA, Jan. 21. — Reports that a general selective plan is expected shortly from the government received categorical denial from a high source today, which indicated that while the government is not shutting the door on plans of this kind, no possibility exists of immediate abandonment of the voluntary principle for workers in war industry and civil occupations.

Conscription in industry may come eventually but it is not imminent, it was learned from a source reflecting the highest opinion on this issue. A high labor department source indicated that no prospect of labor shortage exists to the extent that registration of labor is necessary to carry on essential national services.

ALLOT SUPPLY OF SKILL

On the basis of authentic information, it can be predicted that the first step is to prevent professionals and other workers from leaving their jobs without official consent. Already an extensive labor department registry exists of all professionally-trained persons and work-

REMOVE TRADE, CURRENCY BARRIERS

Gigantic U.S. War Production Plan Announced For Hemisphere

By JACK BEARDWOOD

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21.—(AP)—A gigantic war production plan for the western hemisphere — which includes abolition of all trade barriers and establishment of a common currency for all those anti-Axis nations which accept it, and use of United States naval and air units to convoy hemispheric shipping —was disclosed today by a high official of the United States commerce department.

The program, drawn up by the United States, is expected to be agreed upon at the American conference of foreign ministers, now in session at Rio De Janeiro. The commerce official, who declined use of his name, predicted it would be applied to all nations subscribing to the pact.

If Argentina, Chile or any other nation, does not enter the hemispheric collaboration plan, he said, they will be ignored and the plan will be pursued by the remaining American republics.

Argentina and Chile were reportedly holding back on one of the major aims of the conference—total asverance of diplomatic and economic ties with the Axis.

OUTLINED AT RIO

The plan—known as the Joint War Production Plan—is being outlined at Rio by the under-secretary

Archbishop Of Canterbury To Resign Charge

By H. L. PERCY

LONDON, Jan. 21.—(BUP)—The Most Rev. Cosmo Gordon Lang, 77, Archbishop of Canterbury, and, as such, head of the Church of England and spiritual leader of its 30,000,000 adherents, announced today that he is resigning "to make way for a younger man."

He told a joint session of the houses of the convocation of Canterbury, the church's parliament, that he wanted his resignation to become effective March 31.

The present Archbishop of York, 60-year-old Dr. William Temple, was considered in some British quarters as a likely successor to Dr. Lang.

King George VI, as "supreme head on earth" of the church, received the resignation with "great regret." On the recommendation of Prime Minister Winston Churchill, he appointed a commission of the Archbishop of York, second primate in the church, the Bishop of London, the Bishop of Fulham and Winchester to receive the resignation.

They accepted it and the King approved.

"I deem it my duty to hand over my charge to someone younger in years and more vigorous in mind and spirit who will be better able to prepare now for post-war plans because he may expect a leading

Today's War Moves

By LOUIS F. KEEMLE

Strategists of the United Nations are agreed that increased air power within the shortest possible time is the real answer to stopping the Japanese before they entrench themselves solidly in the Dutch East Indies and multiply the difficulties of eventually defeating them.

This is no new thought. It was recognized at the start of the war with the attack on Pearl Harbor and the sinking by aircraft of two British battleships in the South China Sea. Now it is becoming even more apparent with the increased range and ferocity of Japanese aerial attacks.

It naturally works both ways, as demonstrated by the sinking of a Japanese cruiser by American bombers, announced in Washington

Vote To Test Solidarity Of Pan-Americas

By JOHN P. McKNIGHT

RIO DE JANEIRO, Jan. 21—(AP)—The defence committee of the Pan-American conference unanimously adopted a resolution today expressing sympathy for Axis-occupied countries and assuring recognition to their governments carrying on abroad.

Delegates said the big test of Pan-American solidarity—action on the resolution to break off relations with the Axis which Argentina has said she would oppose—would come to committee vote probably tomorrow.

Hopes that Argentina might fall into line on the proposal to break relations with the Axis were dealt a blow last night by Argentina's acting president, Ramon S. Castillo, who said in Buenos Aires his government could not modify its attitude toward the proposal.

Castillo's assertion was generally accepted here as meaning Argentina had definitely decided against joining the other American nations —at least for the present—in forming a solid anti-Axis front.

Of the 20 other republics represented here, Chile is the only one whose stand on the proposed joint break with the Axis is in doubt.

British Guard Against Spread Of Dread Typhus

By SIDNEY J. WILLIAMS

LONDON, Jan. 21.—(BUP)—Health Minister Ernest Brown announced today that the government had taken special precautions against the spread to the British Isles of typhus, the dread war scourge which is creeping through eastern and southeastern Europe and has reached North Africa.

The war office made it known that it had consulted Russian specialists in London on means to check the spread of typhus to British and British-controlled areas.

Health Minister Borwn said that the ministry of health also had completed arrangements to prevent the spread of typhoid fever from eastern Europe and that local authorities would be able to effect immediate large-scale inoculation whenever advisable.

The Daily Mail reported that the government, quietly preparing against the spread of typhus as well as typhoid, had taken special precautions in port towns.

An official spokesman said today in a formal statement: "There has been a marked increase of typhus or jail fever on the German side of the Russian front.

"There has been an increase also in southeastern Europe.

"No statistics regarding the number of cases are available. From motives which can be understood German authorities have preferred to keep figures most secret."

A government spokesman had said in the House of Commons yesterday that a typhus epidemic which had assumed dangerous proportions in eastern Europe had now reached Spain and that therefore the government was doing all it could to immunize its troops in the Middle East.

Japan's Lucrative Opium Trade Stopped In Thailand

Nippon Barter System Pushes Out Competitors But No Good To Her Now

By GEORGE WELLER

Copyright, 1942, by the Chicago Daily News and The Edmonton Bulletin

SINGAPORE, Jan. 21.—Japan's lucrative opium trade in Thailand is at a standstill due to the inability of Japanese freighters to use Indian Ocean seaways. As part of their program for boring Thailand from within, the Japanese two years ago acquired control of the selling of opium to the Thailanders.

The Japs consider southeastern Asia as their province in the same sense as the Germans do the Balkans and have used Schacht methods (Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, Reich economic genius) throughout.

EXCLUSIVE

In this case they bought opium from Iran in exchange for cotton goods woven in Japan and, using the barter system, were able to undersell their European competitors in Thailand. In order to make sure of getting the entire business they bribed Thai officials and also obtained an advance peek at their competitors' bids for nation-wide drug distribution.

George Weller

NEW NARCOTIC SOURCE

Now, although the Thai government is Japan's willing tool, opium revenues have been cut off, the Japanese freighters no longer can reach the opium ports of the Persian Gulf. Thus Japan must discover some new narcotic source nearer than Iran if her well-known system of making freemen into addicts is to be extended in Indo-China and Thailand and introduced into the conquered portions of Malaya.

ately after the discovery of the body. Police had considerable difficulty in definitely establishing the identity of the dead woman, and it was only by her teeth that identification was made. A stepson made the identification.

The body is being returned to Smoky Lake, and the inquest with Dr. Lawford, district coroner, presiding, is expected to be resumed Friday.

Investigating police officers stated that Boyarchuk had told neighbors that his wife had left home in the early part of October to visit friends in Saskatchewan. However, when the man ended his own life by hanging, and police were unable to locate his missing wife, they became suspicious that the woman had been murdered and an intensive hunt for the body was started.

The farm property was thoroughly searched and, after digging in a shallow well, the body was recovered.

Boyarchuk was found hanging in the farm house by his two children, a son 18 and a daughter.

U.S. Announces Gigantic Plan War Production of state, Sumner Welles, the assistant secretary of commerce, Wayne C. Taylor, and Warren Lee Pierson, president of the Export-Import bank.

Major provisions of the plan are:

1—Removal of all barriers, including tariffs, import duties, customs and other regulations or restrictions of any description which prohibit or delay the free flow of necessary munitions, war or civilian supplies between the American nations. They will be eliminated for the duration of the war.

2—Creation of a free international exchange currency to facilitate flow of goods and prevent delay in transactions. It would be on a gold basis and in addition to the American nations, Great Britain, China, The Netherlands, India and all British dominions would enter into the agreement. A pool of Allied gold holdings would be created.

3—Creation of an emergency labor program for the hemisphere wherever skilled labor would be allowed free movement between countries and whereby any hemispheric labor shortages would be met. Establishment of an emergency civilian workers corps is planned so new war industries can be set up throughout the continent.

SUPPLY TRANSPORTATION

4—In return for the pooling of hemispheric shipping, the United States will take the responsibility for transportation of war supplies and essential exports and imports. This will include convoys with naval and air protection. The United States will underwrite warehouses, ports and collect the war essentials for marine movement.

5—Latin-American nations will nationalise all airlines and air services, not now nationalised, for a 10-year period in return the United States will underwrite the cost and maintenance of the airlines and pledge reduction of international air freight rates and place a ceiling on international passenger rates.

6—The United States guarantees the basic essential exports required to sustain the internal economy of each Latin-American government. Those nations agree to pool all international resources, mineral and agricultural, for a common stockpile of war resources. The United States will supply the capital and technical personnel the plan deems necessary to the conversion of these war supplies.

7—The United States will provide a standard international formula for collecting, tabulating and distributing economic, commercial and financial information. This agreement will be for a five-year period and calls for establishment of a Pan-American statistical union.

MAJOR PROJECTS

8—The United States agrees to finance and complete certain major projects of value to all signatory nations in an all-out war and hemispheric defence program. This includes completion of the Pan American highway, construction of international transportation systems, processing and refining plants, storage warehouses and special conversion industries. In return, the Latin American countries agree to forego their property rights under private ownership laws. The United States agrees that such properties can be acquired by the affected governments or citizens, at the end of 10 years, by purchase.

9—The United States will finance and create free ports wherever the Latin-American countries want them. The signatory republics donate the land for 99 years and the free ports will be administered by a board of governors.

Evidence Taken In City Hospital

Evidence was scheduled to be taken at a bedside in the Royal Alexandra hospital at 3.30 p.m., Wednesday, when a coroner's jury probing the highway crash one miles south of Leduc on Christmas day, in which two persons were killed, hears the testimony of Donald James Tighe, 7208 85 street.

Mr. Tighe is the husband of Mrs. Beatrice Tighe, who died from injuries received in the accident, which also killed David Repp, Calgary filling station attendant. Mr. Tighe also severely injured in the mishap has been confined to hospital since the crash.

The probe with Dr. E. A. Braithwaite, chief provincial coroner presiding, opened in city police court last Wednesday, but was adjourned one week in order that Peter Lienwebber, named as the driver of one of the cars, might proceed to Edmonton and give evidence.

place in recovering to carry them out," he said.

The archbishop said his health was excellent and in ordinary times he might have continued in office a few years longer, "but the times are not ordinary; we are passing the greatest crisis the country has had to meet in all its long history.

"The times demand of those who have any responsibilities and leadership an ardor, vigor and decisiveness of mind and spirit which cannot be expected of a man in his 78th year," he continued.

He will be 78 next Oct. 31.

"Further, and perhaps the chief reason of my decision, is, that when the war is over great tasks of reconstruction must await the church as well as the state. Preparation for those tasks must begin now."

He pointed out that the conference of Lambeth must meet as soon as the war is ended, and it "will exist in a new world and may have momentous influence in determining the place of the church in the new world."

He said that even if the conference met as early as 1946, he would be 86. That was the only hint of his opinion on the war's duration.

"I cannot close," he said, "without adding in all sincerity that this in laying down my life's work I am overwhelmed by the thought that so few of my hopes and ideals for it have been realized and that I accomplished so little for the good of the church and the people.

"Because I know how much this manifold and manifest failure is due to my own faults and sins, I must need welcome the prospect of a few years when I may be able to gain common with Him which was so sadly broken by the incessant pressure of my work and prepare aright for the last stage of the journey of my life."

Woman Injured In Traffic Crash

Miss C. Roberts, Elgin Apartments, was severely shaken up but not seriously injured when she was knocked down by a car on 103 street at 5:35 p.m. Monday. The woman was pinned to the road when the car came to a dead stop on her overcoat. However, when assisted to her feet she stated that she was unhurt, and was taken home by H. Stutchbury, 9345 104 avenue, driver of the car.

Stutchbury told police that he was driving south on 103 street when suddenly he felt an impact against the side of his car. He said that he stopped immediately and found Miss Roberts lying on the road.

In a second traffic accident Monday no one was hurt, but damage was estimated at more than $100 when a truck laden with furniture was struck by a light coupe at the intersection of 102 avenue and 102 street.

Russell Norton, Wentworth apartments, driver of the truck, reported to police that he was well into the crossing when the coupe being driven by G. R. Dumkee, hit the left side of his vehicle, knocking some of the furniture to the road and damaging it slightly.

Dumkee reported that he was blinded by the sun and did not see the truck until it was too late to avoid the collision. The front portion of his car was wrecked.

British Continue Raiding Of Emden

LONDON, Jan. 21.—(CP)—British raiders made another assault last night on the big German naval base at Emden, repeatedly a target of the Royal Air Force during the last 10 days, the Air Ministry announced today. Many fires were started in the port area, said the announcement. Four planes were lost in the assault.

yesterday by 90 Japanese bombers

A Tokyo broadcast said Allied warships had entered the critical battle of Singapore even as Japan's navy minister Vice-Admiral Shigetaro Shimada, boasted that the Japanese navy "virtually commands the Pacific from Hokkaya and the Indies to the west coast of the United States."

On the same excitant note, Premier Gen. Hideki Tojo boasted that Japan plans "increasingly vigorous operations" in the Pacific and would continue fighting until the United States and Britain are "brought to their knees."

JAPS CLAIM ADVANCE

Japanese front-line dispatches claimed battle flags of the Rising Sun were advancing southward along the Malayan west coast "in spite of gunfire from enemy ships" in the Strait of Malacca, which lies between the Malayan peninsula and the Netherlands East Indies island of Sumatra.

British military quarters conceded that Japanese troops—apparently arriving in small boats which hugged the shore—continued to land along the Malay coast during the last 24 hours, striking ahead of the main Japanese invasion army to harass the British west flank.

Strong Japanese pressure also was reported against a British communications highway running southeast from the Muar river section 60 miles north of Singapore ,where British, Australian and Imperial Indian troops are struggling to halt the main Japanese thrust.

It was in this sector that Tokyo claimed 30,000 Imperial troops were trapped.

A Tokyo broadcast claimed Japanese forces yesterday captured Segamat, 95 miles north of Singapore, after a seven-day attack against positions defended by the Australian 8th division and fortified to a depth of 35 miles.

OTHER DEVELOPMENTS

Other fast-breaking developments included:

1—Netherlands East Indies.—The Netherlands high command quoted "reliable reports" that Japanese troops had occupied the entire Minahasa Peninsula, northeast arm of Celebes Island, but "paid dearly for this conquest."

2—Australia.—Nearly 1,800 miles east of Celebes, Japanese warplanes attacked the key ports of Eastern (British) New Guinea and the nearby Bismarck Archipelago. Forty Japanese bombers and 20 fighting planes raided Kavieng, at the north cape tip of British New Ireland, and attacked the New Guinea cities of Madang, Salumaua, Bulolo and Lae. Australia's Prime Minister, John Curtin, said the mass attacks showed the peril to Australia was "nearer, clearer and deadlier than ever."

BAG 18 JAP PLANES

3—Singapore.—Japanese bombers attacked Australia's air base at Britain's $400,000,000 island fortress today but paid a high toll. Twelve of the raiders were shot down amid prolonged attacks on residential districts. On the basis of 10 per cent as a heavy loss, this would indicate that at least 120 Japanese planes were used in the assault.

4 — Burma. — Imperial Tokyo headquarters claimed that Japanese forces now striking into British Burma, China's backdoor for war supplies, "annihilated" defence troops in an attack near Commeander, 16 miles northeast of Japanese-occupied Tavoy, in southern Burma.

British headquarters at Rangoon, the Burmese capital, declared that Thai-Japanese forces which struck from the Thailand border yesterday toward the important port of Moulmein in southern Burma had been checked near the frontier town of Myawaddi.

In the Philippines, a United States war department bulletin said Gen. Douglas MacArthur's American-Filipino defence forces had driven back the Japanese invaders with heavy losses "in particularly savage fighting" on the Bataan Peninsula.

Confederation Life Has Meet

TORONTO, Jan. 21.—(CP)—In wartime, life insurance has two additional roles, President C. S. MacDonald told the annual meeting of Confederation Life Association here Tuesday. It mobilizes civilian dollars for war use and checks inflation by providing a ready channel for regular savings, he said. He said life insurance savings of $170,000,000 already were invested in Victory Loans by companies operating in Canada. V. R. Smith, general manager, reported deaths due to war accounted for only five per cent of 1941 life insurance claims.

H. W. Merrick, manager at Hong Kong, and R. N. Bray, manager at Singapore, attended the meeting. They were in Canada on furlough when Japan attacked. All assets against liabilities in China were in the company's Toronto vaults.

ers of the highest skill. The records of the bureau of technical personnel, it is expected, will be used to allot the supply of skill and brains to the best national use. Transfers of persons, it is thought, present little difficulty and require little compulsion as far as this class of professional worker is concerned.

The labor department employment exchanges, now operating under the unemployment insurance commission, will become the clearing houses for transfers of workers from one occupation to another, from one part of the country to the other.

But compulsion will be used sparingly, if it is indicated, and as far as existing plans have been made, all necessary authority exists in the National Resources Mobilization Act.

No announcement of selective service, except in the most general terms, is expected in the Speech from the Throne tomorrow.

McCauley Concert Group Entertains

To aid the Queen's Canadian Fund for Air-Raid Victims, a concert and dance was held by the McCauley Concert Group in the Ardrossan Community Hall on Tuesday evening. The affair was sponsored by the war service guild of the district, which also provided supper. Proceeds of the program amounted to $40 and an additional four dollars was raised for the quilt fund.

Several Edmontonians went to Ardrossan for the concert, and during the evening, Mr. and Mrs. A. S Williamson, old-timers of Ardrossan, were congratulated on the occasion of their wedding anniversary.

The concert group will hold another concert next week, the place and day to be announced later.

HINDERED IN LIBYA

Storms Hamper British Action

CAIRO, Jan. 21.—(AP)—The worst sand and rain storms seen in Libya in 10 years are hampering the movements of British land and air forces attempting to strike at Lt.-Gen. Erwin Rommel's Axis forces along the Gulf of Sirte, British headquarters said today.

As a result, much of the region has been rendered impassable, a communique said, and the Axis forces have taken the opportunity to mine heavily the restricted areas over which British forces might press the advance.

This has made operations doubly difficult, the bulletin declared.

The announcement said, however, that collection of equipment in the Halfaya (Hellfire) Pass sector along the Libyan-Egyptian frontier previously ended from the Axis last week was continuing and that the final count of prisoners captured there was 5,036.

Prisoners included 37 German officers and 2,009 men. Italian captives included 178 officers.

Captured equipment, British headquarters said, included 16 German and 44 Italian field pieces "in first class condition" and large quantities of other arms, munitions and supplies of all kinds.

ISSUE CONSIDERED AT CONVENTION

Farm Groups Would Strike If Necessary To Get Hearing

Are Prepared To Take Militant Action For Solution Of Problems

Members of the United Farmers of Alberta agree with a recommendation from the United Farmers of Canada (Alberta Section) that the proposed new amalgamated organization be sufficiently militant to go to the extreme of organizing a farmers' strike in order to obtain legislation to give them a fair deal.

The suggestion that the new organization provide for implementing of "direct action" in the constitution was discussed during consideration of the plan to amalgamate the two groups at the U.F.A. convention at the Macdonald hotel Tuesday night.

Following a lengthy discussion centering around the advisability of a farmer organization taking direct action in order to obtain its demands, the delegation felt that the inclusion in the clause of the need of a two-thirds majority vote of the membership before direct action were taken, would act as a safeguard against action which may prove injurious to the farmers' cause.

Four of the six basic points, proposed by the board of directors of the U.F.A. following the joint session of the U.F.A. and U.F.C. boards of directors last Saturday, were passed as recommended.

Item five, dealing with the name of the amalgamated organization, and item six, dealing with the position of the U.F.A. co-operatives, was postponed to be taken up at the earliest possible moment during Wednesday's session.

OUTLINES POINTS

Chester O. McGowan, president of the U.F.C., submitted a brief letter to the U.F.A. convention outlining the six essential points of amalgamation and asked their consideration on them, stating that the joint meeting had tentatively agreed upon the first five.

Plans are to have the two bodies of delegates meet in a joint session Thursday or Friday to act on recommendations of the two separate bodies.

The following six points were submitted by Mr. McGowan:

1. Non-political clause; 2, bonafide farmer clause; 3, direct action agreed; 4, compulsory membership; 5, name; 6, The position of the U.F.A. co-operatives.

These were read by Mr. Gardiner at the early afternoon session who further explained the method in which the U.F.A. board of directors asked the question at their session Monday.

As a result of their discussions Monday the U.F.A. board of directors recommended for adoption at their convention the six points outlined in the following manner:

FOR DISCUSSION

1—That in the event of amalgamation the new organization shall not take direct political action unless and until a plebiscite of the members approves by a two-thirds majority.

2—Membership in the new organization shall be obtained in one of the following ways: (a) by joining a local of the organization. Such membership shall be confined to farmers resident on the land or persons whose major source of income is the farm.

(b) By becoming a member at large or an associate member, thus providing for those who participate in the co-operative activities of the organization, who may not be eligible for full membership, and.

(c) employees of the organization. Members under classifications (b) and (c) shall not have voting powers.

3—That we accept the principle of direct action as advocated by the U.F.C., providing that such action shall first be approved in a plebiscite by a two-thirds majority of the membership.

4—That when the new organization comprises fifty-one per cent of the farmers of the province, power shall be sought from the Provincial Government to enforce membership by levy or compulsory payment of dues.

5—In regard to the name of the new organization, no recommendation is made. The matter is referred to the Convention in full session.

6—That the Co-operative as at present constituted shall remain owned and controlled by the new farm organization.

EXCHANGE SPEAKERS

It was further arranged that each group exchange speakers during the afternoon. J. Lyle McMillan, Edmonton, first vice-president of the U.F.C., outlined the history and objectives of the U.F.C. to the U.F.A. delegates and at the same time Robert Gardiner, U.F.A. president, addressed the U.F.C. gathering on a somewhat similar topic.

Mr. McMillan traced the history of the organization and stated that the membership now stands well over 6,000 bona-fide farmers, 4,000 of whom have joined within the past three months. About 1,300 members were signed up since January 1, Mr. McMillan stated.

He explained that the constitution of the U.F.C. has been constructed following careful study of the weaknesses and strong points of the U.F.A. and numerous other farmer organizations across America.

MAJORITY SAFEGUARD

Considerable discussion centred around the first point, several delegates expressing their opinion that there may be danger giving away too many of the principles on which the U.F.A. organization has been built and thus failing to protect phases of the constitution that has been valuable to the organization.

Mr. Gardiner explained that the reason for the insertion of the clause asking for a two-thirds majority for decision to enter politics, was that it was their desire to follow out the organization's policies as a democratic principles as possible.

As a safeguard against any snap decision on the part of future members of the organization, it was the wish of the board that the two-thirds majority clause be inserted in the resolution, Mr. Gardiner explained.

He disagreed with the demand of the U.F.C. for complete dissociation from politics at all times in the future, on the grounds that it was not up to the present members to say what plans for what future members are to do or not to do.

PLEBISCITE FIRST

The U.F.C. organization expressed a desire that at no time in the future and under no circumstances is the farmer organization to enter the field of politics. They argued that the organization function under a union system, similar to that of the Brotherhood of Railwaymen.

After considerable discussion the U.F.A. delegates passed unanimously the following resolution to cover the first point: "That the new farmer organization take no direct political action unless and until a plebiscite be taken and two-thirds majority approve such action."

After discussion on the second point deviated considerably from the question at hand J. K. Sutherland appealed to the delegates to face the issue on a basis of the future to the farmers of the province and to compromise, if such will be necessary to accomplish amalgamation.

Another delegate asked that trivial differences be forgotten and that amalgamation be formulated in the cause of the united farmers of this province.

The second point was passed unanimously after several queries about life members and members of occupations dependent directly upon farmers for their livelihood were answered.

"DIRECT ACTION"

Liveliest discussion of the day's program centred around the "direct action" clause. P. S. Best felt that no direct action clause should be necessary as the farmers would get all they asked for once they were organized 100 per cent.

Mr. Gardiner, in answer to a query, explained that the meaning of the term "direct action" was taking direct steps, even to the extent of calling a farmers' strike, to acquire farmer demands.

J. N. Wheatley, felt that inclusion of such a clause in the new constitution would be unnecessary as it was impractical for farmers to strike, especially during the war. He felt that a square deal could be obtained without direct action as long as the farmers organized 100 per cent.

James Bentley expressed the opinion that the farmer organization might well be more militant than the U.F.A. organization has been in the past.

Several delegates stated that they favored the inclusion of the clause on the grounds that the two-thirds majority clause safeguards any unwise action that may be contemplated in the future.

RECOMMENDATION PASSES

The recommendation as subquitted by the directors was passed with several dissenting votes.

Item four, dealing with compulsory membership in the proposed new organization, was passed unanimously with very little discussion.

At this point the convention adjourned with a suggestion that items five and six be taken up at the earliest possible moment on Wednesday.

Prior to the business meeting the delegates participated in some community singing with H. P. Brown, of the department of visual instruction, department of extension of the University of Alberta, as the leader.

Rev. Daniel Young, B.A., minister of the First Baptist church, spoke briefly on the need of man today to look in three directions—look in, look out and look up. He stated that freedom, justice and honor will remain with all if they keep looking up.

Norman Priestley, Robert Gardiner and A. B. Wood alternated as chairmen during the evening session, while Hugh Allen presided during most of the afternoon session.

DR. NEWTON SPEAKS

Dr. Robert Newton, acting president of the University of Alberta, addressed the 500 visitors and delegates on the topic, "Preparation for the Peace".

He discussed the topic from three angles, the local aspect, the national aspect and the international aspect. Under the local aspect he emphasized that now is the time to "dig in" and at the same time to be careful not to over-expand, particularly in the agricultural industry. He listed rural road construction, eradication of weeds, painting, improved gardening, and profitable crop production as some of the lines of local reconstruction that could be tackled now or immediately after the war.

He quoted a clipping from a well known scientific magazine which stated that "Economic planning is the main cause of destruction of political freedom and of promotion of complete collectivism". The speaker stated that he was not fully in accord with the statement, but that from a national aspect the text stands for serious consideration, if conditions are to be improved.

He argued that national planners have failed an numerous occasions because of lack of detailed knowledge. He suggested that decentralization of decisions is a necessary aspect to national preparation for the peace. The man on the spot should have more opportunity to give off information, he said.

In our price system we must include a social price, he explained. He emphasized that real freedom can be enjoyed only if problems are solved co-operatively and if exploitist action is eliminated.

ECONOMIC UNION

He explained that the Canadian government has already set up a national committee of reconstruction which is studying the question of soldier rehabilitation, use of army skills in civilian life, peacetime use of munitions plants, and more decentralization of industry.

In dealing with the international aspect of peacetime reconstruction, Dr. Newton used three terms of the Atlantic Charter as a basis from the standpoint of the farmer.

He stressed that isolationism must be done away with, and that there must be equal access to raw materials and to trade.

An economic union of nations which could promote such schemes as a world wheat pool would go a long way toward eliminating fear and want, he stated.

Dr. Newton explained that the power of production of the individual farmer has increased to 26 times the output of 1789, and that such a state of affairs must be reckoned with the West.

BACON PRODUCTION

The huge increase in bacon production in Denmark was marked an epic in western agriculture and makes way for similar developments in other phases of agriculture in the future, he stated. Bacon export to Britain has jumped from 11,000,000 pounds in 1931 to 600,000,000 pounds in 1941.

In the educational field Dr. Newton stated that the need for more research and the need for the establishment of a system in which the ability to pay should not determine the extent of a child's education, were the two fields requiring most vital reconstruction.

Robt. Gardiner Approves Union Of Farm Bodies

Hope that the United Farmers of Canada (Alberta Section) and the United Farmers of Alberta will see fit to amalgamate was expressed Tuesday afternoon by Robert Gardiner, Calgary, president of the U.F.A., when he addressed the U.F.C. convention in the Masonic Temple.

Mr. Gardiner's address was coupled with an address given at the U.F.A. convention in the Macdonald hotel by Lyall McMillan, first vice-president of the U.F.C. The hope that he expressed regarding the proposed amalgamation followed closely the footsteps of a statement made by Chester O. McGowan, U.F.C. president, at opening sessions of the U.F.C. meet Tuesday morning, when he said that his organization was "perfectly willing" to become, with the U.F.A., a single association of farmers, provided certain principles of his group were adhered to.

POLITICAL ISSUE

Mr. Gardiner conveyed the greetings of his organization to the U.F.C. and briefly made reply to some of the criticisms which he said had been levelled at the U.F.A. in the past.

"We have been criticised for going into politics," Mr. Gardiner said. He stated that this was done because the organization believed at the time that such was in the best interests of the farmer.

"To tie your hands too tightly against taking a part in politics is not in the best interest of the farmer," he said. He asked that in the event of the amalgamation being realized, a constitution be so worded that a two-thirds majority would decide whether or not the new organization would take political action from time to time.

NAME PROBLEM

Referring to a feeling among some members and executive members, that a new organization would have to function under a new name, Mr. Gardiner stated that the U.F.A. "has been the most successful farmers' organization we have ever had in this country. We are not ashamed of that name," he said. "And I hope it will not be the crux that will keep us apart."

"I am not new to either the farm union movement or the trade union movement." Mr. Gardiner said. "I came here from a country where land was looked upon as owned only by the privileged classes. I came here, first to Saskatchewan to build a home for myself and family."

He then told of his experiences in the early days of the U.F.A. movement, when he was a member of the U.F.A. executive.

U.F.A. ASSETS

The speaker excused himself for mentioning that the U.F.A. at the present time has assets amounting to about $97,000. "All members, shareholders, share in these assets," he said. "The sum has been built up entirely for the service of the members."

Concluding his address, Mr. Gardiner expressed the hope that discussions regarding amalgamation might continue, and that some basis of agreement for a union would be reached. "With conditions in agriculture as they are at the present time, we are going to need strength to face our problems," he declared.

The afternoon was devoted largely to getting the convention officially underway.

COMMITTEES NAMED

Two committees were named to handle credentials and resolutions. The resolutions committee comprises W. T. Logan, Holden; J. R. Toulinson, Foisy; and V. W. Mohler, Stromte. On the credentials committee are J. F. Melenka, Warwick; W. A. Yuzep, Willingdon; R. Harris, Barrhead; D. G. Moore, Spirit River; and V. O. Craddock, Picardville.

General chairman of the convention is F. E. Austin, chairman of the Vegreville school division.

During Tuesday's sessions the following directors were introduced to the gathering: Mr. Austin, Fred Collins, Hazeldine; Mr. Craddock, John Rawluk, Lake Eliza; William Hawrelak, Wasel; J. P. Minette, Stromte; Mr. Melenka, Mr. Harris, J. R. Sharon, Stubno; Mr. Yuzep and Mr. Moore.

CONVENTION BANQUET

It was announced that the convention banquet, slated for Thursday, will be held Wednesday (tonight) at 6.30 p.m. in the Royal George hotel instead. This change was made to accommodate Peace River delegates who must return to their homes on Thursday's train.

Reading of the financial statement showed a cash balance of $1,007.33 as of December 31, 1941. The statement of receipts and disbursements was for the period October 31, 1940, to December 31, 1941. The balance in October, 1940, was $58.83. Members and executives expressed approval of the statement.

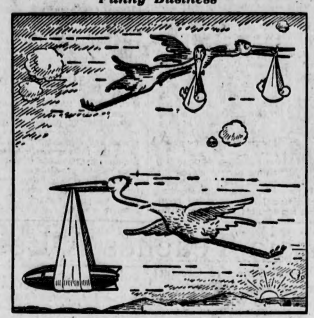

GUEST SPEAKERS

Chairman at the banquet will be Mr. McGowan, and guest speakers will include George Bennett, chairman of the Alberta Wheat Pool, and Hugh Allen, president of the Alberta Livestock Co-Operative Ltd. A film dealing with "Bacon For Britain" will be shown also.

Greetings from the U.F.C., Saskatchewan section, brought by Frank Eliason; the U.F.A., brought by Louis Hutchinson, and the Edmonton Trades and Labor Council, brought by Alfred Farmilo, were received at the closing sessions on Tuesday.

On the agenda for Wednesday was a discussion of amalgamation in the morning, and resolutions all afternoon, starting at 1.30 o'clock.

Reservists To Bolster West Coast Defence

VANCOUVER, Jan. 21.—(CP)—Maj.-Gen. R. O. Alexander, general officer commanding, Pacific command, Tuesday announced organization of a brigade of reserve army forces on Vancouver Island and the lower mainland.

The brigade will be under command of Col. A. W. Sparling, D.S.O., who is promoted from the rank of Lieutenant-Colonel and moves from the position of Vancouver representative of the district commanding officer which he has held for about two years.

WARFARE TRAINING

Objects of the reorganization, Gen. Alexander said, are to provide additional defence of vital points on the British Columbia coast, to strengthen the active army in the event of attack, and to give every man unable to join the active army an opportunity of serving in the defence of the country.

Col. Sparling said the brigade would do "exactly the same job in British Columbia that the Canadian active service force is doing in England. They will be defence forces, trained and ready to move against an invader at any moment . . .

"We have been promised all of the equipment we need and this brigade will have priority over all the rest of Canada. The men will start with basic training, then will progressively advance to practical warfare. Street fighting, taking and holding beachheads, combatting enemy landing parties; all these will be included in the syllabus."

Saskatoon Airman Killed In Crash Of Trainer Plane

AYLMER, Ont., Jan. 21.—(CP)—Pilot Officer Don Palmer of Saskatoon, and Pilot Officer I. G. Matheson of Milner, B.C., were killed on Tuesday in the crash of a Harvard trainer on a farm about nine miles from here, near Tillsonburg, Ont. Both were stationed at the Service Flying Training School near here.

P.O. Palmer was an instructor at the school, and P.O. Matheson recently completed his training and received a commission in western Canada.

Showing Their Mettle

When bombing planes shoot down fighter planes that is news, for the fighter planes are specially built to shoot down bombers. The unusual happened on Saturday when five American bombers, returning from a raid on Japanese troops in Celebes island, encountered a squadron of enemy "interceptor" planes. Nine of the latter went down, against two of the bombers destroyed and one damaged.

Two days before, U. S. planes took a hand in the fighting in Malaya, blasting a Japanese airfield near Penang, starting fires, and all returning safely to their base. And on Monday another squadron sank a Japanese cruiser and damaged a tanker, off the Philippines.

This record shows that the United States air force is getting into action in numbers, since the operations covered a wide range of sea and land. The efficiency of the men and their machines is attested by the damage done to the enemy. And there is a suggestion that the new bombers used by them are well able to take care of themselves against the type of fighter used by their opponents. If so, the bombers can cruise at will without fighter escort, and the air superiority of the enemy is automatically endangered.

It will be only a matter of time, measured in months, until for each United States plane now in the fighting zone there will be ten, later on a hundred. Since Tokyo based its plans on assumed command of the air, these early incidents in the struggle can be anything but welcome news in that quarter.

War On Both Coasts

The battle of the Atlantic has apparently been extended into the coastal waters of Canada and the United States where enemy submarines have been active for a week, picking tankers for their victims when these could be found. That these are only "nuisance" raiders seems less likely than a few days ago.

If the word "good" could be used in association with the unwarned sinking of merchant ships, this is good strategy. Every tanker sunk means not one but many fewer cargoes of oil for United planes, tanks and ships. And if United States naval forces had to be called in from mid-ocean to hunt U-boats in home waters, other submarines could do more damage along the sea approaches to Britain.

The submarine operating in the western Atlantic are three or four thousand miles from any home port. It is noted, too, that they are prodigal in the use of torpedoes. The almost necessary inference is that they are getting supplies of fuel and munitions from hidden bases along the seaboard or from "mother" surface ships. Canadian and United States naval forces and air patrol craft will of course give attention to that probability, while the search for the seas for the submersibles. The long-range raiders, it may be assumed, are having their hey-day now, and will be duly dealt with.

But strange thoughts must now be stirring in the minds of those who were telling us not long ago that the Axis powers could not interfere in this hemisphere if they wanted to, that Canada had gone looking for trouble when it declared war, and that United States would be foolish to meddle in anything so remote as the row in Europe. Japanese submarines off California and German or Italian submarines off New York supply the comment of the Axis chiefs on that kind of Polly Anna complacency.

Parliament

Parliament meets tomorrow, to formally close one session and open another. In war-time the Houses are always in session, though not always sitting, the members subject to summary call should a new development require the passing of legislation or the making of new decisions which the Ministers do not feel justified in making without consulting them.

No one need wait for the Speech from the Throne to know what will be the big business of the new session. It will be the war business. The whole course of our national life—and of our individual lives as well—is dominated by the life-and-death struggle in which we are engaged. Production, trade, finance, are all shaped and modified by war needs. Personal freedom of choice, in occupation and in the use of earnings, is restricted and must be still more restricted by regulations framed to preserve the national security without which this freedom could not exist in the future.

Parliament will hear what progress has been made in enlarging our fighting forces, in producing munitions, in controlling inflation, in adjusting incomes to meet the changed conditions of living, in curtailing civilian supplies for war purposes; in all the unusual activities which war has thrust upon the Government of this unprepared nation. So far, of course, as the disclosure of information will not be of advantage to the listening enemy.

All this will lead up, as it must, to plans for the further expansion of our war effort, the more complete mobilization of our powers, human and material, for all-out exertion. Our war program is progressive, and has to be. That something approaching a miracle has already been accomplished in putting this unarmed and peace-loving country on a war footing is known. But what has been done is preliminary to what further can be done. There is always a chance to do something more. Even in Germany that is true—or Goering and Goebbels are wasting their time calling mass meetings for more and still more intense activity and still larger sacrifices.

Of necessity an evolutionary program is inescapable in a country where up to little more than two years ago we had no army, had never built aeroplanes or warships or tanks or heavy guns. It will be the business of parliament to decide and direct by what methods and along what lines this evolutionary process can be most usefully speeded in the coming year.

From the personal and very practical point of view, not the least interesting item on the sessional agenda will be the announcement of what new taxation is to be imposed and what figures the national expenditure is likely to reach before the year is out. A national war-time budget has to be of the "open" type, the figures indicating only the roughest outlay, which may be —and is intended to be—exceeded if planned undertakings can be carried out more rapidly than supposed. It will be fortunate if, without too heavy an increase in taxes—we can keep on paying three-quarters of the national outlay from current revenue, as has been done thus far.

Berlin announces that Germany, Italy and Japan have signed a new agreement providing for "proper and appropriate distribution of military forces in preparation for operations of great striking power which will be of outstanding significance." Which probably means Herr Hitler is going to call on Japan for military assistance. Russia had better look out for its eastern frontier.

Some beet-growers in the Lethbridge district suggest that Japanese who are to be removed from the coast be sent to work in their beet fields next summer. Provided they are hand-picked trusties, that other men are not thereby thrown out of work, and that local sentiment does not inspire pro-tests, the Japs might as well make themselves useful there as somewhere else. The country doesn't owe them a free living — but it does owe them a chance to earn a living.

World Is In Rebellion Against "Speculative Economy"

Hitler Has Misjudged Social Views of the German People

Says Thompson

By DOROTHY THOMPSON

The German military strategist Karl von Clausewitz said: "War is the continuation of politics in another sphere." That political factors are a major element in the winning or losing of a war is a reality long recognized by imaginative military brains. When Hitler attacked Russia he made a major political blunder, from the viewpoint of internal German politics and world politics. Until then, Hitler had presented the Nazi revolution to the masses of the people of the world as a movement of liberation against "plutocracy."

Inasmuch as there is a strong current among the masses of the people everywhere in rebellion against commercial or speculative economics—that has resulted in poverty in the midst of plenty, business cycles of boom and depression, labor and capital (money) regarded as commodities to be controlled by price rather than invested for the welfare of the whole of society—Hitler's propaganda struck sharply into the ranks of workers. And in all countries the workers are the core of the productive system which shares with the armies, also recruited from the masses of the people, responsibility for the successful outcome of the war.

Collaboration

The conclusion of the Russo-German pact, and the succeeding months of what seemed like collaboration between the two "revolutionary" powers, broke down the resistance of the masses of workers in France and elsewhere. And it immensely lifted the morale inside Germany, where the masses of industrial workers were, to some degree, pro-Russian.

Actually, the greatest possible reason for the war power have been an outright alliance between Germany and Russia. That alliance would have had every aspect of invincibility. For Russia's geographic position and immense land area, that stretches to the heart of the Eurasian complex and to the Pacific, put her in an unrivalled strategical position. Her international policy gives her allies inside all countries.

The advantage that both countries possess for political warfare is that they are the mecca of international movements. And during the apparent honeymoon of the last two years both movements presented themselves as agents of the rising working classes, whose demand for a different status in the world of society is the outstanding characteristic of our century.

Off the Course

The attack on Russia veered the most effective Nazi propaganda off the course it had been successfully pursuing, and left Nazism clearly revealed for what it is: an intensely reactionary movement, stealing democratic and socialist slogans, for the purpose of seducing the masses of the peoples of the world into military and industrial feudalism, under German hegemony.

The attack of Japan on the United States further clarified the situation, for it was made solely after the war party, which, at the same time represents the most intransigent feudal elements in Japan, had come to power.

And the repercussions were noticeable all over the world. The flare of sabotage in the occupied countries was a first result. It emanated from two sources. First, from the European Slava who have always regarded Russia as the mother of all the Slavs. And second, in the occupied countries, from those who had been apathetic and confused by the existence of the Russo-German pact, wondering whether perhaps Nazism and Communism together were not, indeed, some "Wave of the Future."

Picture Changed

The alignment of Germany-Japan versus Britain, China, Russia and America changes the entire political constellation. It puts military and industrial feudalism on one side, and political freedom, national liberation, socialism and democracy on the other.

This somewhat terrifies our conservatives. But it puts the sense of the future, amongst the masses of the people of the world, on our side, and this is an asset of incalculable power. For if by socialism, one means that the resources and labor of nations are going to be used for the welfare of the people of this earth, and not chiefly for a limited caste or for speculators, then socialism is in accordance with the world's conscience and intelligence.

The problem is to discover how the economic order can be purged of industrial feudalism and transformed into a free industrial society fulfilling its obligations to mankind, with the least amount of dislocation. And it must be determined how political liberty, personal freedom and creative personal initiative can find their place in such an order, along with recognition of the fact of nationality.

Mark of Victory

Whatever fighting nation, or alliance of nations, can first offer to the peoples of the world a solution of their problems in harmony with the realities of the twentieth century, and the willing desire of the insecure for a reasonable existence, will win this war, if not by arms, then by popular risings.

But this means that during the war we must develop more clearly the outlines of such a society. Those who advise that we freeze our changing social order as of December 7th are counselling a course that will prolong the war's end and hasten it, and make it more costly, not less.

If fearing our Russian allies we fail to develop such ideas, more accomplish to the main currents of European thought than those of the Russians, only then shall we risk seeing the Soviet the only heir to this war. The timid reactionaries are likely to push us into a pallid Fascism, which might lose us the war on the French pattern, or open the gates to a revolt which is the last thing they want.

The problem of the man who lives consciously in his century is to find the synthesis for which the world is waiting.

Russia Teaches A Lesson

Benign Social Objective Greatest Driving Force in Peace Or in War

By HAROLD L. WEIR

Looking at the whole picture of the war in the very slight perspective our nearness permits us to achieve, we must come to the conclusion that the most amazing part of the entire conflict has been the rehabilitation of Russia, proved beyond question by the stern quality of her resistance.

It is evident to the most casual observer that some mysterious ferment has been working in the Russian nation since the last war, and that the Russians have acquired some new driving force they did not possess in 1914 or subsequent combatant years.

In 1914, they were poorly led. They lacked fighting spirit. Graft and corruption were said to be rampant in their army structure. Altogether, the Russian war effort in 1914 was not far short of an exceedingly tragic joke.

Harold L. Weir

This time, the Russians have proved themselves to be the equals of the Germans. In organization, in strategy and in individual fighting force, they have successfully resisted the greatest war machine ever put together in the history of man.

What has effected this transformation? What specific force has rehabilitated the Russian nation and the Russian people?

Social Objective

Communists have hastened to ascribe the Russian miracle to the peculiar recuperative powers of Communism. They believe that any nation which chooses to enter upon the Communist experiment will undergo a similar rehabilitation.

There is a powerful element of truth in this declaration. And yet it represents a flagrant error in logic. To prescribe Communism holistically for debilitated nations is to confuse the intention with the accomplishment.

If Communism itself were the sovereign panacea nationalists claim, there would one explain the driving force behind the Germans who, from the ideological viewpoint, have adopted a completely antithetical formula?

The secret of national rehabilitation is to be found neither in Communism nor in Nazism, but in the factors they are common in the two. And the one common factor that gives both of them their power and stands out above everything else, is the factor of organized social objective.

Both are powerful and effective because they express the world rebellion of the masses against those economic forces which destroy the social security of the common man.

Russia's performance in the war is valuable from a military standpoint. It is far more valuable from a moral standpoint. It is important because it sharply draws our attention to the fact that a moral social objective is the key to a social objective with benign implications, tends definitely to mobilize the most powerful forces within any nation.

No Endorsement

This argument is not in any way to be construed as an endorsement of either German or Russian Communism.

While German Nazism has this aspect of social objective, that objective has been stultified and even negated by concurrent Nazi theories and methods.

Hitler has mobilized German public opinion and aroused German zeal by holding up a benign social objective before his people. The fact that he has perverted that zeal and poisoned that public opinion to promote his own selfish ends does not detract in any way from the admitted potency of the force he has stirred up. His greatest sin lies in limiting the benefits of his social objective to what he calls his own chosen race.

Similarly, the beneficent qualities of Russian Communism have probably been put to some evil ends. We cannot subscribe to many of the by-products, intellectual and spiritual, of Communism.

Curiously, the Russians have sinned in a manner directly opposed to the offence committed by Hitler. They, at least, burn to share their discovery with the world. But what they insisted, in years past, on giving to the world was not their social objective, which was the essence of their program, but their own peculiar form and by-product of it, which is Communism.

Confusion

Both the Russians and Germans have confused the essential issue of their social programs by giving them a religious implication.

Hitler built up, by a synthesis of pagan legend, naturalistic philosophy and his own overweening ambition, a form of Nazi ethics.

Because his conception of religion was limited to its appearance in Christian ethics, he began to think of Christianity as a system competitive to his own.

This was the gravest error for two reasons: first, because Christianity is far more than a code of ethics and, secondly, because his antagonism to Christianity deprived the German people of that spiritual balance essential to the working out of any social program and the intelligent and benign employment of the national zeal stimulated in the process.

Russia made the same mistake. She began to regard her political and economic system as a religious system. Consequently, her national zeal, until, by accident, it was focussed on one supreme purpose, was largely dissipated in fruitless theorizing and sometimes offensive proselytizing.

Both Germany and Russia have had a tremendous weapon in their hands. Both have misused it. Germany in a vicious and violent way, Russia in an experimental way.

Nevertheless, enough has been said to show that the source of both the German and Russian vitality is a virile social objective—they promised something definite and worthwhile to their people.

I have tried, perhaps not so successfully, to show how that vitality, in Germany since the war, and in Russia before the war, has been abused.

Russian Lesson

Russia has made mistakes. We have been mistaken, in equal degree, about Russia.

Putting aside the relatively inconsequential by-products of Communism, we can still learn a valuable lesson from it. That lesson is this:

That if we want to instil into our Democracy that same vitality possessed by Communism, if we want to make it a living and irresistible principle, we have got to give it the same social objective for which, in Russia, people are willing to die.

We have got to release our people from the burden of financial tyranny. We have got to release them from the spectre of social insecurity.

Sooner or later, the war, in its broader implications, will boil down to this:

That victory will rest on the banners of that nation which offers to the masses of the world the greatest social rewards.

This is the lesson taught by Russia. It is time we began to learn it—and to implement it in positive planning and legislation.

Compulsory Service Is Not Fair to Young Men Is Opinion of Correspondent

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Editor, Bulletin: Conscription, the Jingoist pet, seems to be receiving a lot of attention these days. I am absolutely against it, always have been and always will be.

On the other hand, if the government of Canada has to put into effect some form of compulsory service, let it be as fair as possible to the young men of today.

In short, call up first the men who by reason of age or ability to dodge, did not serve in the last war. (I say age, I mean too young). Then call up nationals of all other nations resident within our borders, and if the country of their world origin is our enemy, send them to other fronts less likely to contain their own kind.

The main point is, do not take young men of say 18 to 28, but concentrate on those above that age up to 50, excepting only men who served in the last war.

Relatives and friends wrote to me at the front in the last war re conscription, and my advice was "vote no," and that is my opinion yet. D. F. T.

Britain Speaks Program

Editor, Bulletin: Wondering why the C.B.C. had discontinued the "Britain Speaks" program, I was with great pleasure and satisfaction that I read the letter by Britisher in your issue of the 17th January. I heartily agree with what he has to say, although he expresses his opinion of "Newbridge Drama" rather mildly. What I have to say about such rotten tripe wouldn't pass the censor. If there is either intellect or educational matter in this kind of bunk, I fail to see it, and when it comes on the air, off goes my radio in disgust, whilst I wonder how many more evenings we have to endure this kind of agony. As an Imperial soldier of the last war, I voice all the news relative to this latest struggle, as well as the views and opinions of my fellow countrymen. What a thrill to most Englishmen to hear from that courageous and scarred battled isle, "This is London calling."

New Clothes

Editor, Bulletin: Someone signing themselves "Jealous" does not seem to like the idea of our soldiers getting a "walking out" or dress uniform.

This person has gone so far as to talk of "tin hat nincompoops" who introduced the idea.

It certainly was unnecessary to be insulting about it. Probably the idea is to encourage recruiting, but in any case this person should not object to the boys (who are willing to risk their lives in order that this "Jealous" person may stay at home in comparative ease and safety)—having a dress uniform.

I presume "Jealous" has a working suit and also a "dress" suit to go to church or to the movies.

"Jealous" thinks it a waste of money! Alright "Mr. Jealous," will you sell your best suit of clothes and donate it to the war effort? Will you be satisfied to wear your working clothes—and not buy or wear any "best" clothes while this war lasts?

Are you as good a man, as good a Canadian, as unselfish and as loyal as our volunteers?

If so, prove it! I am referring to volunteers of course —not conscripts. I don't care what they wear and I certainly would give them a present of a brand new suit, and about ten cents a day for a bottle of pop.

AN ADMIRER OF ALL VOLUNTEERS.

Win the Peace

Editor, Bulletin: Hats off to The Bulletin. Your several front-page editorials on Social Security, and especially Old Age Pension deserve the highest praise from all right-thinking citizens, be they old or young.

Certainly the Old Age Pension law should be changed from top to bottom beginning with its name, from "Old Age Pension" to the name of "Aged Citizens' Reward" or "Senior Citizens' Reward," or some name more suitable to take all the embarrassing, begging sting out of the very necessary reward and justice due our worthy aged pioneers who pushed civilization to the back lands, worked, slaved, paid taxes with cracked-skin fingers and opened up this "last great West."

The next worst feature, (apart from the paltry amount of pension) is the red tape and rules in connection with obtaining pensions, and after receiving same. The feeling is forced upon the aged that they must keep on coming back, meaning for a hand-out, like going to the "Poor House" and old the song of "Over the Hills to the Poor House, I Wander Alone There to Die," is uppermost in the minds of the most desirable citizens, when they have to do business with the Old Age Pensions Board.

The writer's great-grandfather was given a grant of land in Nova Scotia by the King for services during the American Revolution. But he did not have to beg for it. Indeed he did not even have to ask for it. It was given as a reward even in a land of strife, and as a satisfaction or supposed honor for him and his descendants to legally put the letters U.E.L. after their names; and that law still stands.

But under the Old Age Pension law, if a citizen is tough enough to live seventy years in this country he has to pass a searching examination and be visited yearly by a (necessity of rules) snooping inspector, to see if perchance a woman with a kind hand had given the poor old chap a second shirt or a Christmas present of $51.00.

The Bulletin plan of a pension or reward to all over a fixed age should work OK by having an income tax to collect back the amount of pension if not needed, and an orderly tax on remainder of income. This would enable the law to do justice to the people in different provinces, due to the different set-up in situation.

The Bulletin editorial of January eighth is also timely and true. It is headed "Social Security." It is necessary in my mind, is the key to open a better world. The fear of non-security, be it caused by sickness, unemployment, or old age some time in the future, is the root of most of our evil. It is a constant headache, a drag, a break on what should be a cheerful happy life. It is a prompter to mean dealing, greedy deals, and often criminal acts, a piling up for a rainy day. The "Golden Rule" would be for everyone to look for himself, and the devil take the hindermost.

We speak of fighting for democracy, liberty and freedom, and sing "Britons never shall be slaves." Well, what have we?

Democracy, oh, what sins are done in thy name! Freedom to work and grow old: liberty to be hungry and cold. We want security against aggression, security against a Jap or Hun at our border line, but within. Security against aggression and oppression from the powers that be, the higher-ups, fellow-citizens, or so-called fellow man.

Until this is done, we fight wars in vain. We win a war, and lose the peace, peace at our border-line and hell within.

GUY NOVA, U.E.L.

Wainwright, Alta.

Old Street Car Tracks

Editor, Bulletin: We are gradually getting into stride in an all-out war effort, and it is imperative that all possible iron and steel be salvaged.

I have been wondering if the disused car tracks all over the country couldn't be utilized. Surely the disused railway and street car trackage throughout Canada, if lifted, would make a considerable quantity of steel.

I wonder if such quantities of steel would be found lying in the streets of London, where they have even taken the Palace fence down, or in Berlin. If this is to be an all-out war, let's have it and clean up.

McCoy Health Service

Although high blood pressure is in itself only a symptom, and while in its earlier stages it may produce almost no warning symptoms, nevertheless, at a later stage it may be accompanied by a number of symptoms which cause distress.

As a general rule, there is a gradual but persistent rise in the pressure over a period of years, and during this time the patient may be free from symptoms. For example, in some individuals, the blood pressure may be twice its normal figure, and may stay that high for years without producing any noticeable discomfort.

However, in the later stages there is produced enough interference with the blood circulation so that symptoms develop. These may be as follows: Distress after effort, shortness of breath, and pain around the heart or over the lower part of the chest.

At first; these signs are not pronounced and it may require unusual effort such as climbing stairs quickly, carrying a heavy package, or some other type of activity calling for unusual effort before the patient notices any discomfort. Subsequently, the feeling of distress and shortness of breath may follow such events as eating too heavy a meal, or being out in a cold and biting wind. Such symptoms are a sign of a lessening of the reserve power of the heart, and they may be totally overlooked by the patient until the reserve is so low that he suddenly notices some unaccustomed activity is causing acute distress.

Other signs may appear, such as numbness and tingling of the arms and legs, temporary dropsical conditions, and disturbance similar to the "hot flashes" seen during the change of life.

When the high blood pressure condition is advanced the patient may notice that he is mentally depressed, that he has an extreme tendency to worry, that he is unable to sleep, and that there is a loss of memory, especially for late happenings. He may awaken with a headache. The patient may also mention such symptoms as ringing noises in the ears, blurring of the vision or haziness of the vision.

In some of these advanced cases of high blood pressure, there will be an accompanying damage of the kidneys which will be evidenced by a lessened ability on the part of these organs to concentrate the liquid which they eliminate.

The greatest danger from high blood pressure comes from the lack of early warning signals. Because of the lack of these signals, the patient is encouraged to neglect treatment which would lower the blood pressure before "something breaks." All too often, the breaking-point takes the form of a stroke, which may or may not be, followed by paralysis.

All questions regarding Health and Diet will be answered. Large, stamped, self-addressed envelope must be enclosed. Write on one side of paper only. Letters must not exceed 150 words. Address McCoy Health Service, 1151 West 6th St., Los Angeles, Calif.

New Executive Is Installed By Legion Branch

With the friendly smiles of comradeship, born in the furious fires of war 25 years ago, temporarily erasing a grim determination to win this new struggle through to final victory, members of the Edmonton branch of the Canadian Legion, B.E.S.L., installed their board of officers for 1942 in the Memorial hall, Tuesday night.

More than 350 members, with their wives and invited friends, witnessed the deeply impressive ceremonies that saw Harold E. Tanner, ex-Forty-Niner, take over the president's chair from W. R. McLaren, who has served as chief executive officer of the Edmonton Legion branch for seven consecutive terms. Other officers and executive members were also inducted, after which John Michaels (Mike), was the recipient of an honorary life membership in the Canadian Legion.

PRESENTS GAVEL

Past President McLaren conducted the ceremonies of induction, starting with the executive members first and concluding with the transfer of authority from himself to President Tanner.

President Tanner in turn presented Past President McLaren with the gavel used, and an engraved past president's badge on behalf of the Legion branch.

The following officers were inducted for the 1942 term:

President—H. E. Turner; first vice-president—John Maclean; second vice-president — Alex. Riddell; executive members—W. Griffin, E. Goodenough, W. R. McLaren, W. Daniels, G. C. Scott and T. Moorehouse.

Past president McLaren was also the recipient of an honorarium.

The newly elected and other officers were given custodianship of the cenotaph flags donated by the I.O.D.E.

In addition they received custodianship of the cenotaph itself on the authority of His Worship Mayor John W. Fry.

COLORFUL CEREMONY

In the colorful ceremony of installation the new officers were piped to the stage by the pipe band under Pipe Major Henry Laing. This was preceded by the marching on of the colors. Secretary-Manager J. H. Van Slyke presented Sergeant-at-Arms (pro tem) R. Dalgleish to President McLaren, who proceeded with the ceremonies of installation.

After the ceremony there was the march out of the colors followed by singing of God Save the King.

President Tanner made the presentations to Retiring President McLaren.

Mr. Tanner observed it was in itself a high tribute to Mr. McLaren that he would be receiving the gavel he has possessed for seven years as head of the Edmonton branch of the Canadian Legion.

It is due in large measure to the work of Mr. McLaren that the Edmonton branch now holds a position of high esteem in the community and is a real force for good in the city of Edmonton. The retiring president was also given most of the credit for the fact the Edmonton branch is now on a sound financial basis.

LEGION'S RESPONSIBILITY

Mr. Tanner said he would do well to try to follow as closely as he is able in the path made by the retiring president.

"It is of the greatest importance that the old soldiers build up an organization at the present time that will be able to assist the soldiers of the new army after the present war is over," said Mr. Tanner.

The Legion has a grave responsibility and also a unique opportunity to do great service to Canada, not only in organizing for victory in the present struggle, but in the gigantic task of rehabilitation that lies ahead, the new president stated.

Mr. McLaren paid a high tribute to the new president in a short address in which he formally relinquished the reins of office.

Mr. McLaren said he had formed a high opinion of the judgment of W. "Paddy" Griffin during his seven years as president, but never had Paddy used better judgment than when he nominated Mr. Tanner for president.

EVENTFUL YEAR

"We are passing into a most eventful year. Our Dominion president has put us all on the spot, placing responsibility for rehabilitation of the new soldiers on the organization," said Mr. McLaren.

"But I have no fear for the Edmonton branch under the direction of the new president. The branch is sure to take its rightful place in the community and I feel that I speak for all members in pledging loyal support to follow Mr. Tanner in all efforts aimed at bringing the war to a victorious conclusion and in meeting the other big problems that must be faced," Mr. McLaren concluded.

In presenting Mr. Michaels with the badge of honorary life membership, Mr. McLaren recalled that "Mike" was one of the earliest supporters of the Canadian Legion here. He had been one of those who worked hard to get the Memorial Hall built.

"He has made the forgotten men among the veterans his special responsibility for the past 18 years. He has not been able to eat his own Christmas dinner in all those years without first making certain the down-and-outers have also had their feast," said Mr. McLaren. "Mike" has always paid the shot without sought-after publicity," he said.

HIGH HONOR

In presenting the badge Mr. McLaren said the Canadian Legion does not "pass out" these badges very often. There are only 15

BEATIN' THE BLITZ —By Rick Elmes

Through The Mill

When a police court magistrate casts to one side with scarcely a glance the little white card bearing an accused person's previous record and then proceeds to pass sentence, he may not shatter precedent but he must certainly does arouse one's curiosity.

But when it is revealed that the offender, as in this particular case, is as much of an institution in the court room as the very bench upon which his worship sits, and is in fact probably better known to the men on the beats, than to his own relatives, record cards prove of little value.

Such was the case of an incorrigible individual, who, it is reasonably safe to say, has set some kind of a record in the matter of appearing in the prisoners' dock at city police headquarters. As a matter of fact he gets in and out of jail with such amazing rapidity, that the stalwart custodians of the cells have to look twice just to make sure whether he's in or out.

On not less than 24 occasions this accused has faced the court: 23 times the charge has been intoxication and convictions have been registered, with fines ranging from the customary $20 and costs upwards, assessed and duly paid.

It seems that a couple of months ago the accused on one of his regular appearances before the court had what in police parlance is known "as the book" thrown at him. It was a fine of $200 and costs or two months hard labor. The prisoner elected to serve the jail term and was released only this past Friday. Just two hours in Edmonton proved his undoing, and after making the rounds was back once again in the cells. A fine of $50 was promptly paid and again accused was free. However, the inevitable happened. Within a few hours he was back again in the cells after an uproarious celebration on city streets.

"It's just no use, the court orderly observed, "he'll always come back." And the cadi: "You just don't seem to appreciate anything we're trying to do for you. Two months hard labor!"

Police are sure he'll be back. It's just one of those things, they say, like perpetual motion, you know.

Such members in the Dominion, he believed.

"I have seen these awards made to the highest and lowliest of men, but I know of no one who is more worthy of the honor than Mr. Michaels," concluded Past President McLaren.

Jack Jones was master of ceremonies. The guests were treated to three musical selections by the Gould trio and two short motion picture films were greatly enjoyed.

There was a lunch served after the films.

Light Charges, Water Accounts Given Approval

Approval of light and water accounts of the city schools from January to November, and the coal bills during November and December, was granted Tuesday night at a meeting of the property committee of the Edmonton Public School Board, and the accounts will be submitted to the board. W. G. McConachie, committee chairman, presided.

It was pointed out at the meeting that water accounts showed increases over the figures of the previous year, but the increases were attributed to the dryness of the summer months, and the increase in the city's water rates. The added costs of water used at the new Westglen school, built during the past year, was also noted.

CHANGES SUGGESTED

D. M. Davidson, representing the caretakers, asked that in future the accounts show the changes in cubic feet used as well as the changes in actual cost, in order that the caretakers might have a better idea of the relative uses. The request will be submitted to the board.

Water costs from January to November, 1941, was $3,423 against $2,-945 last year, showing an increase of $578.30. Of that increase, costs at Westglen accounted for nearly $100.

Coal bills in December, 1941, amounted to $3,341 against $2,960 and a total to date of $17,587 against $17,988 in 1940.

JOINS ARMY

To replace J. R. Anderson, junior caretaker at Westglen High school who has been called on active service with the R.C.A.F., J. W. Armstrong was appointed to the caretaking staff. Mr. Anderson has been granted leave of absence and will retain his seniority of service.

Recommendation of J. M. McAfee, plant superintendent, that the fan for extracting air from Westglen school be disconnected and "that the old window system of ventilation be used" was approved for submission to the board at the next meeting. It was also agreed that a manually operated winch be installed in the boiler hold at the school.

REQUESTS TABLED

Requests of an education committee representing a group of Ukrainian citizens in the city and of the Central Church of Christ (Disciples) for school space were tabled.

Question of providing soundproofing in the assembly hall of McCauley school came under discussion and it was decided that the matter would be tabled until the details of the maintenance estimates had been dealt with.

Trustee A. E. Ottewell stated that, while he would like to see the work done, he felt the board would be subject to legitimate criticism for the expenditure required, approximately $1,100. Other trustees concurred in this opinion.

Looking Them Over

By JACK KELLY

GIVING the day's sport parade a galloping gander:

U President Ray Dumont of Wichita, the guiding genius behind the National Semi-Pro Baseball Congress, has come up with another of the bright ideas that have made his congress one of the most lively forces in baseball today. He is getting out a correspondence course for umpires. It will be given free, but limited to 2,000 men.

There are at least 5,000 semi-pro ball players who will assure President Dumont that his correspondence courses are a waste of effort and printing since no umpire is smart enough to both read and write.

Universities throughout the United States are awinging into the nation's war drive in every possible way, but a lot of them feel that one of the major contributions they can make is to bring all their students up to the highest possible standard of physical fitness so that they will be ready when called to the armed services. Expanded sport and physical training programs are being launched daily by colleges from coast to coast.

Purdue made physical preparedness a compulsory course for 1,000 men students last fall. When the semester ended at Christmas, a check showed an average improvement of 16.9 in the physical fitness of these 1,000 students. The University of California is at present considering a similar course. Southern California has already launched an intensified program of sports and mass physical training. Washington State and University of Idaho have also announced similar programs.

Don't be stampeded into trading off your golf clubs for a set of garden tools and committing yourself to slavery. Indications are that you will probably be able to get enough golf balls to see you through the coming season.

Bert Gee, manager-pro of the Municipal course, tells me that at least one of the leading manufacturers of balls has written him and announced plans for recovering balls that are not too badly damaged. This service has been extended in England and Scotland for many years and gives you a ball practically as good as new for a fraction of the usual cost.

Final details of this service have not been announced, but club pros will likely be made agents for collecting and shipping balls to be recovered.

Latest reports from the United States are that 1942 will see something like 250,000 tons of synthetic rubber produced from crude oils, possibly 300,000 tons produced from the cultivated guayule bush and another 250,000 tons produced from rabbit bush. This makes a total of 800,000 tons against the United States, normal needs of 700,000 tons.

The Mad Russian Keeps 'Em Happy

"WHILE gate receipts have left something to be desired, there is never a dull moment on the current professional tennis tour," says Harry Grayson, noted U. S. sport commentator. "There couldn't be with Frank Kovacs around.

"By this time, Kovacs, the Ringling Brothers and Barnum and Bailey cut-up, has riled the very orthodox J. Donald Budge and Frederick Perry by his antics. Serious Donald Budge, who discusses tennis with the fanaticism of a Columbus Circle soap box orator, despises Kovacs when the magnificent screwball imitates his waddle.

"That gives the troupe three ducks—two big ones and a little one, for Bobby Riggs always has walked like one.

"The Don Budge of today is not precisely a spiph, and his added avoirdupois has given him the movements that inspired Nutsy Kovacs.

"When they change sides, Kovacs waddles past Budge as spectators roar. The redhead's color matches his hair as Kovacs goes through this pantomime, and the dizzy Kovacs adores it.

"You think of tea and crumpets when you see the typically English Fred Perry. Imagine his reaction when Kovacs nonchalantly serves him three balls at once. To Perry that is synonomous to playing gin rummy in the House of Lords.

"So, you see, Frank Kovacs is giving professional tennis the same sort of bucks office appeal that practically drove wrestling, one of the true dramatic arts, out of business."

Gigantic Texas Rangers Scorn All Defensive Play

By JACK GUENTHER

NEW YORK, Jan. 21—(BUP)—When you read a few days hence that Al Smith has ordered 25 more stories added to the Empire State building and that Mrs. Fiorello Laguardia is soliciting funds to buy vitamin pills for the statue of liberty, remember the name of Algernon Baggett.

Mr. B., who identified himself as coach of the tallest team in the world, breezed into town from the west Texas panhandle a few hours ago and after listening to him declare his opinions as some length the city of New York has thrown in the towel for the duration.

"Most crowded place both I've ever seen," boomed Brother Baggett in a voice like an air raid siren as he stepped off a train and planced over Grand Central station. "Say, Bub, if you haven't anything bigger than this around these parts I don't know where my boys will bunk!"

With that as a starter, Mr. B. plunged at once into the history of West Texas State College, nationally obscure institution in Canyon, Texas, which he claims boasts a collection of the biggest boys he found anywhere outside Ringling Brothers' tent. Quite naturally, they play basketball.

DEFENCE? PHOOEY!

"But not just plain, ordinary basketball," shouted the lone star scout from his height of six feet four inches. "We play the biggest basketball in the world. we use no defence and we can field a team which averages six feet, six inches in height. And that is nothing unusual.

"We've had teams that big for the past eight years down in Canyon. We grow 'em awfully big in Texas, you know, and they birds of a feather tend to flock together. You collect a few big guys at your school and all the others come arunning. They also like to be shared at if they are the only big boys around, they like to mingle with boys their size.

Mr. Baggett has coached the West Texas basketball team since 1933 and he has parlayed forty boys and $500 into a $100,000 dormitory and half a dozen regional championships. That, he said, was no trick at all because when your boys get over six feet six, you just toss 'em a ball and keep order.

FREDING IS THE PROBLEM

"I haven't had to teach them very much," he confessed modestly and had trouble first in collecting them and keeping them fed and bedded down. So I gave them jobs dig-ging rock and chopping petrified wood to build the dormitory. Now they all have jobs keeping it maintained. They get board, tuition and a few minor items, but they have to work for them."

The system has worked wonderfully well because this year the Buffaloes, as they are known, have won 16 games of 17, scored 1,100 points and will have travelled 12,000 miles when they meet Long Island U. next week. They always travel at least that much, even when playing home teams like Rice, Baylor, Texas Christian, Southern Methodist and Texas.

Charles Halbert is our real big boy," Mr. B. continued. "He is a six, ten centre. Prize Brookfield is six four and the best shot on the others are skyscrapers, too. They are so tall they play over the opposition's head and they all are fast. The only time they got mad they scored 111 points and they led the only game they lost, 21-8, before they lost interest."

BLANKET ANYTHING

West Texas uses no defense because the boys can blanket all kinds of shots. They work strictly on the offensive and have won 71 of 86 games in three years. Last year they scored 860 goals and 343 free throws for accuracy averages of 30 and 60 per cent. and rang up 2,063 points, of which Brookfield collected 492. But all is not beer and skittles.

For instance, Baggett had to buy a special bus with extra leg room for the boys must have Pullman partitions knocked out so limbs can overlap in trains, has a particularly difficult time finding beds in hotels and forks out plenty of cash every four hours for food. His hardest blow, however, was the loss of 8 six-eight guard who weighed 275 pounds and was plenty fast. This lad got himself married.

"After what happened to that Texas football team," Brother Baggett yelled a trifle nostalgically. "I'm taking no chance on marriage and having a team broken up because wives fight over publicity. Six feet, eight inches. 275 pounds and all that speed was hard to lose, but out he went."

Eddie Suspended Indefinitely

Shore Chased Off Ice For Blitzing Referee

SPRINGFIELD, Jan. 21.—(AP)—Eddie Shore, playing-manager of Springfield Indians hockey team, who was indefinitely suspended Tuesday, said it would depend on the American Hockey League president when he played again. League President Maurice Podoloff said at New Haven, Conn., Shore had been suspended from any participation as player, coach or manager in Springfield games.

Shore attacked referee Eddie Kunis on the ice and later resumed the quarrel in the official's dressing room last sunday night during a game with New Haven in that city.

"Naturally I won't be on the ice tonight against Philadelphia," said Shore, who also owns the Springfield club. "Just when I will play again will be up to Podoloff. When I was talking with him he didn't say how long I would be suspended. He said a letter was on the way with the details of his decision. I'll have to wait for that before I'll know what it's all about."

Leading 2-1 and commanding play with 10 minutes to go, Rangers let Harold Laycoe skate through the centre of their defence for the tying goal. Sports . . . Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

NEW YORK, Jan. 21—(AP)—Art Rooney and Barney McNeiley, the Pittsburgh fight promoters, already are planning a big war benefit card for next summer, when they can stage it outdoors. But it's to be built around Billy Conn, who may be in uniform by that time.

HOT STOVE WARMUP

Central New York colleges may try night baseball this summer with Syracuse Chiefs providing the park.

Considering the possibility of twilight baseball in Boston, the Post's Al Hirshberg brings up the possibility of triple-headers starting at one p.m. and running right through to seven, so workers on any shift could see at least nine innings.

THANKS, HANK!

Louis Duino, of the San Joe (Calif.) Mercury Herald, phoned Golf Pro Hank Lucente seeking news. Hank reported there was nothing doing. "Why don't you do something about it?" Duino asked. Hank did. A half hour later he called back to report he had sunk an iron shot for an eagle on the first hole.

NO INSULT, ANYWAY

Reporting the accident to Florida horsemen, the Tropical Park press department commented: "Smith, at least, had the satisfaction of knowing that the best horse in the barn and not a cheap plater, was responsible."

CALGARY, Jan. 21—(CP)—The jewelry stage was reached in the A.P. Grain, primary competition, here Tuesday as play continued in the annual bonspiel of the Royal Caledonian Curling Club's Alberta branch with most of the games again being played on artificial ice as result of warm, chinook weather.

Bombers Leading Leaf Bantam Loop

A factor in the Bombers winning streak has been the scoring prowess of centre Charlie Wallis and left winger Delbert Wagner who have 11 and 10 points apiece.

Scoring leader for the league is Captain Phillip Junkis of the Comets who has acquired 14 points, while Allan Richards of the Arrows is in fourth place with 9 points.

Rangers Catch Up At Last To Boston Bruins

BOSTON, Jan. 21. — (AP)—After spoiling Boston Bruins a pair of goals, New York Rangers pulled into a first-place National Hockey League tie by overtaking the Stanley Cup champions for a 4-2 victory Tuesday night before a capacity crowd of 14,900 at the Boston Gardens.

It was the Bruins' first regular home game setback since Feb. 23, 1941, when the Rangers shut them out 2-0.

Rangers uncorked a three-goal attack in the final period and their last pair of tallies were registered while the Bruins were playing short-handed.

Lynn Patrick tied the score at two-all during the third minute of the final period, with the 100th goal he has made during his eight N.H.L. seasons. About 11 minutes later, while Art Jackson was serving a minor, Alex Shibicky blasted a game-winning 10-foot drive through goalie Brimsek.

While the Bruins were attempting to rally, Dit Clapper drew a major penalty, with only five minutes remaining, for punching Art Coulter. While he was off, Phil Watson scored the final goal after a rink-length solo dash.

When the bell clanged, Coulter headed for the penalty box to continue his argument with Clapper and they grappled. Officials pulled them apart.

Milt Schmidt accounted for both of the Boston goals during the first 36 minutes of play and Bryan Hextall, the league's leading scorer, increased his points total to 32 by scoring the first Ranger goal and assisting on Patrick's tying tally.

Clapper was not the only Bruin forced to miss the last five minutes. Woodie Dumart, who will undergo a Canadian army physical examination in London, Ont., today, had to rush away at that point to catch his train.

Heath Nominated Cleveland's Best

CLEVELAND, Jan. 21—(AP)—Jeff Heath, who might have been a poor gamble at the waiver price a year ago, was honored last night for one of baseball's remarkable comebacks.

The Cleveland Indians' slugging outfielder was honored at a dinner of the local chapter of the baseball writers association with a trophy naming him the Tribe's most valuable player of 1941 and a set of left handed golf clubs.

As for new bats, Heath, native of Fort William, Ont., reckoned he didn't need any. His old ones gave him 20 in last season's American League batting race. That left him trailing only Ted Williams, who is army-bound; Cecil Travis, already in the service, and Joe DiMaggio, who isn't expected to trade uniforms.

"I have any luck at all I could win the batting title this time," said Heath. "A fellow might stand a chance if they keep on taking all those .300 hitters."

Edmonton Junior Squad Announced

The Maple Leafs along with players from both Canadian and Edmonton Athletic clubs, will be northern Alberta's representatives in the junior provincial playdowns, according to an announcement made by W. G. (Bill) Harris, director, on Tuesday night.

"While those responsible for naming the players had a tough job on their hands," said Tommy Hays, manager of the Leafs, City League champions, when interviewed last night, "it looks like a well balanced club to me and one which should develop a fine team spirit."

The personnel of the team is as follows:

Goal, Wilbur Delaney; defence, Johnny Dutchak, Ab. Superstein, Clint Cowan and John Colfer of the Maple Leafs, along with Art Michaluk, the Canmore junior who has cut such a wide swathe in hockey here this winter as a member of the Edmonton Athletic Club.

Three front strings have been chosen, from amongst the splendid array of talent in this year's City Junior league.

BLACK AT CENTRE

Johnny Black, sharpshooting centre of the great Maple Leaf line, with him also includes Sonny Barchyn and Russ Klesko, will act as pivot of one string, along with his two hard hitting side-kicks.

Another string which should pack plenty of power will be pivoted by Walter Dorohoy of the Canadians with Fred Smillen, great play maker of the E.A.C. at left and Russell (Bus) Johnson, speedy Canadian winger, on the right boards.

"Red" Fairy, one of the finest players in the junior loop, is also being included for he can fill in either on the forward line or on the defence and his choice is certainly a wise one.

Doug. Stevenson, goalie for the E.A.C. is the alternate goalie.

PREP GAMES PLANNED

While no schedule has been mapped out yet, a tough program is being planned for the city representatives and they will have plenty to do before they hit the playoff trail, which should lead to the provincial title, with possibly more honors to come later.

The first game for the new Maple Leaf squad has been set for Saturday, when the boys take on the Edmonton Athletic Club, while the Canadians are at Wetaskiwin. A new schedule will, however, be announced this week, which will include several games with Wetaskiwin Cubbies, entrants in the Alberta intermediate playdowns.

The Canadian Amateur Hockey Association this year gave both Edmonton and Calgary the privilege of adding to their regular junior league winners and the above mentioned team has been chosen as a result.

The Maple Leafs are the city junior loop winners, as there is only one game to play and they hold a three-point lead over the Canadians, their closest rivals.

In the meantime, Canadians are playing E.A.C. tonight at 119 street rink, in the last game of the regular schedule of the City Junior League.

Red Sox Turn Down Lefty Grove

BOSTON, Jan. 21—(AP)—Eddie Collins, general manager of Boston Red Sox, said Tuesday that an offer of Bob (Lefty) Grove to return to the Red Sox to compensate in a measure for the loss of three left fielders through military service would not be accepted.

"While the Boston Red Sox deeply appreciate the long and loyal service that Bob Grove has given to the Boston club and are grateful for his offer recently made to return to try to help the Sox" Collins said, "we feel that such a comeback attempt would be an anti-climax to a grand and glorious career We think too much of old Mose to ask him to shoulder any more pitching burdens."

The players lost to the Red Sox through military service are Mickey Harris, Earl Johnson and Larry Powell.

Majors To Probe Night Ball Idea

CHICAGO, Jan. 21—(AP)—Kenesaw Mt. Landis, commissioner of baseball, last night called a joint meeting of major league club owners for New York Feb. 3 to consider expansion of night baseball.

The call followed a suggestion last Friday by President Roosevelt that more night games be played.

Present rules limit each club to seven games at home. However, last week the National league fell in line with American league efforts to expand night games, agreeing to an increase when the National league members hopes would not exceed 14 games.

NEW YORK, Jan. 21—(BUP)—There's been so much switching of dates and substituting on the forthcoming Madison Square Garden fight program that perhaps a recapitulation is in order.

Hepburn Refuses Breeders' Request For Commission

TORONTO, Jan. 21 — (CP) — Premier Mitchell Hepburn Tuesday rejected a request from the Thoroughbred Breeders Association for appointment of a provincial commission to control horse racing in Ontario.

The T.B.A. voted to ask for a three-man commission to take the place of the Incorporated Canadian Racing Association, which has been in dispute with the Breeders Association since last spring. At present the I.C.R.A. is comprised mainly of track operators. The T.B.A. asked for a government-appointed commission, consisting of a high court judge as chairman, and representatives from the I.C.R.A. and the T.B.A.

"We are not having another board of commission in Ontario," Premier Hepburn said. "Our policy is to get rid of them, rather than to create new ones. If the racing interests cannot settle their problems they can take the consequences.

"We are not going into the business of regulating race tracks beyond the point we do at the moment."

Hornsby Calmly Accepts Honors

FORT WORTH, Tex., Jan. 21—(AP)—Rogers Hornsby today accepted his induction into baseball's hall of fame with the same calmness in which he has accepted all the good and the bad that have come to him in the game the last quarter of a century.

The former north side milkman and Cubs manager who now is general manager of the Fort Worth ball club was getting a hair cut when announcement of his election to the hall of fame by the baseball writers of the country reached him. The barber didn't have to miss a snip as Hornsby absorbed the news.

"Swell! I get out of here and to the ball park," he said. "That's the place to talk about this."

A few minutes later at the park he said:

"Naturally I appreciate this great honor. I am sincerely grateful to all fellows who voted for me."

Trail Stops Stampeder Sweep Into Kootenays

TRAIL, B.C., Jan. 21—(CP)—Calgary Stampeders headed for Kimberley and the tailend of their first swing over the British Columbia section of the A.B.C. senior amateur hockey league with not too bright prospects of bettering the record of other visiting Alberta clubs.

The league leading Stampeders were all set last night to what no other travelling club has done in the Kootenays, ring up a better than 50 per cent average in the four games scheduled for each road trip. But after winning the first two games Stampeders stumbled over Trail Smoke Eaters in their third game and dropped a 4-2 decision.

PLAY TONIGHT

Tonight, however, the Albertans will get another chance to make it three victories when they meet Dynamiters at Kimberley.

Maurce Duffy, Mike Buckna and Ab Cronie were the three reasons why Stampeders didn't get far last night. The trio were in on all four of Trail's goals. Buckna scored twice, Duffy once with two assists and Cronie once with three assists. Dunc Grant and Les Thirlwell supplied Stampedrs' punch, Grant scoring both goals with Thirlwell assisting.

BOTH IN FIRST

Both Calgary goals came in the first period of the bruising, hard-checking game. Grant took Thirlwell's pass to flip an angle shot past Duke Scodellaro in the Trail net after 12 minutes of play.

The second Stampeder goal was a neat passing play in the final few seconds of the period. Doug French and Grant pulled the defence and goalie out, then slipped the puck to Grant who eased it into the wide open net.

Smoke Eaters got one goal back in the first minutes when Duffy batted the puck into the Calgary net after a mixup in front of the goal. Then three minutes later Buckna tied up the score, shooting from just inside the crease.

Buckna popped in his second goal at 3.23 of the third season and in the final minute Cronie another for Smoke Eaters for good measure.

Japs Now Plan Bring Britain, U.S. 'To Knees'

TOKYO, Jan. 21 — (Japanese broadcast recorded by AP)—Premier Hideki Tojo told the Diet (parliament) today that Japan, acting in close co-operation with Germany and Italy, planned "increasingly vigorous operations" in the Pacific and would go on fighting until the United States and Britain are "brought to their knees."

"Japan intends to strengthen further her solidarity with her allies in military, diplomatic, economic and various other spheres and to go forward toward the attainment of a common purpose," Tojo declared.

He said Japan would "gladly enable the Philippines to enjoy honor and independence" provided the Filipinos showed what he called a genuine willingness to collaborate in achieving common prosperity.

In reference to Australia and the Netherlands East Indies Tojo declared:

"If they continue their present attitude of resisting Japan we will show no mercy in crushing them."

Domei said the premier made "virtually no mention of Japanese relations with the Soviet Union."

300 Police Officers Put Under Arrest

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa, Jan. 21.—(CP)—A large number of uniformed men and detectives were detained Tuesday in a roundup of Johannesburg police suspected of subversive activity.

Some were detained while going on or off duty, others were brought in by troop carriers. Some of the arrests were made at the central station.

Reuter's News Agency estimated that about 300 men were detained in a simultaneous roundup carried out by police and members of the National Volunteer Brigade, the equivalent of Britain's Home Guard.

Reuter's said the roundup in Johannesburg and the adjacent area was carried out without incident.

The agency added: "In view of the fact that south African police are thousands strong, it is stressed . . . that the men affected form only a very small percentage of a large, loyal body, which carries out its duties very satisfactorily."

Reuter's concluded that the action "gives effect to recent statements of the Minister of the Interior and the minister of justice that the government is determined to stamp out all subversive elements."

1941 Wheat Crop 299,401,000 Bus.

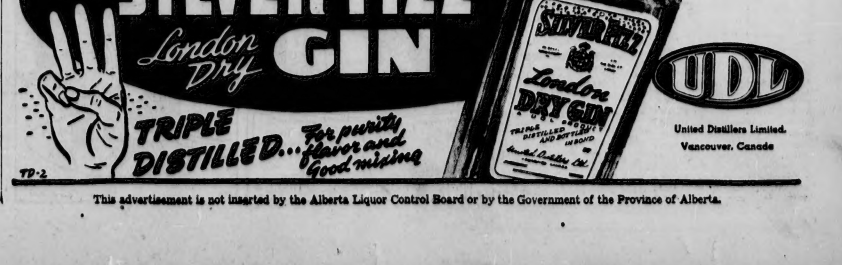

OTTAWA, Jan. 21—(CP)—Canada's wheat crop was placed at 299,401,000 bushels today in the third crop estimate of the Dominion Bureau of Statistics, compared with 1940's production of 540,190,000 bushels.

Reduced acreage and unfavorable weather conditions in Saskatchewan and Alberta were largely responsible for the curtailed production," the bureau said.

Production of fall wheat—mainly in Ontario—totaled at 16,465,000 bushels and spring wheat is placed at 282,936,000 bushels.

Alberta's crop of 58,500,000 bushels was less than half the final figure in 1940.

Twenty-seven per cent of the coking coal consumed by the steel industry is supplied by the state of Pennsylvania.

Livestock Producers: Much of the bruising of livestock can be prevented when shipping. See that your trucker or shipper uses plenty of bedding, and, in cold weather, has his truck or railway car properly slated to prevent cold drafts. The better condition they arrive in at the market, the larger your returns.

Bank Of Toronto Officials Announced

J. R. Lamb Retires As Bank Toronto President; Elected Board Chairman

TORONTO, Jan. 21—Announcement of the retirement of Mr. John R. Lamb as president and his election as chairman of the board of The Bank of Toronto—and the appointment of Mr. F. H. Marsh, heretofore general manager, as president, was made today.

It was also announced that J. L. Carson, previously assistant general manager, had been made a director and appointed a vice-president.

Mr. Marsh and Mr. Carson will both continue active in the operations of the bank.

Mr. B. S. Vanstone, formerly assistant general manager, was appointed general manager.

Mr. Paul J. Myler continues as senior vice-president.

LONG CAREER

Mr. Lamb, the retiring president, began his long and successful career with the Bank of Toronto when as a lad, he entered the Toronto Branch as junior clerk.

In 1905 he established a branch of the bank in Winnipeg, becoming its first manager and later assuming in addition the responsibilities of western superintendent, which position he held until 1915, when he was transferred to head office as superintendent of branches.

Mr. Lamb was appointed general manager of the bank in May, 1922, when the bank's total assets were less than half the figure at which they stand today.

He was appointed a director and vice-president in 1926 and retired as general manager in 1928, but remained active in the operations of the bank as vice-president.

In 1935 he assumed the position of president, continuing to give full time to the executive affairs of the bank. His close connection with the progress of the bank has earned him wide recognition as an outstanding financial and business authority.

Mr. Lamb will continue his intimate association with the bank as chairman of the board.

UNUSUAL EXPERIENCE

Mr. Marsh, the new president, has had the rather unusual experience of serving in three banks. For the first two years after finishing school he operated his mother's farm—leaving it to enter the Imperial Bank of Canada at Ingersoll in 1893, as a junior. From there he went west, serving at numerous points on the prairies and in British Columbia, including Winnipeg and Vancouver.

Following his return from British Columbia in 1905 he became branch manager at Cobalt, and participated in the opening up of that spectacular mining area. In 1908 when manager at Sault Ste Marie, he was invited to assume management of the Toronto branch of the Sterling Bank of Canada of which he later became superintendent of branches, occupying that position from 1912 to 1921. In May of the latter year he again changed banks, this time assuming the position of western superintendent of The Bank of Toronto at Winnipeg. In 1928 he returned to Toronto as assistant general manager and in 1938 was appointed general manager.

FINE BACKGROUND

Mr. James L. Carson, now vice-president of the bank, and a member of the board, assumes his new position with a background of many years' banking experience. Beginning in Montreal as a junior clerk in 1905, when he came to this country from Scotland, he became manager of the Montreal branch in 1922. He filled this position until 1938 when he was appointed assistant general manager of the bank. As vice-president, Mr. Carson will continue active in the operations of the bank.

Mr. B. S. Vanstone, newly appointed general manager, began his banking career in Bowmanville in 1900, transferring to Toronto in 1903. For many years he has been connected with the head office of The Bank of Toronto as inspector, supervisor of Ontario branches, chief supervisor of eastern branches, and assistant general manager, until his new appointment as general manager.

Mr. Paul J. Myler, who continues as senior vice-president, is widely known throughout Canada as president of Canadian Westinghouse Company Limited, of which Company he is now chairman of the board tact in spite of many and heavy Soviet attacks.

Soviet Armies Continue Drive Past Mozhaisk

"These attacks resulted in heavy losses being suffered by the Soviets but without achieving the occupation of any important points."

Fall of Mozhaisk, climaxed by bloody street fighting in the glare of burning buildings, was announced in four words by the Russian command:

"Our units captured Mozhaisk."

SOVIET HAS RESERVES

The city, forward anchor of Hitler's winter defence front, was occupied by triumphant Red army forces at 8.30 a.m. Monday (10.30 p.m., M.S.T.). It had been captured by the Germans just three months ago at the height of their now broken offensive against Moscow—the drive which Hitler proclaimed would be "The last great decisive battle" of 1941.

In London, Soviet quarters declared that the fall of Mozhaisk would signal a "titanic continuation of the battle," and that the Russian army now has hundreds of thousands of completely fresh reserves ready to hurl into a giant offensive along the entire 1,200-mile front.

Tass, the Soviet News Agency, said the Germans suffered enormous losses in an attempt to obey Hitler's order to hold Mozhaisk at all costs.

SCENE OF CARNAGE

Tass said Red army troops, storming into the city after smashing earth-and-timber forts 50 to 100 yards apart, found a scene of chaotic destruction and carnage.

"The whole defence belt was dug with huge craters and littered with German bodies. . . . Soviet foot soldiers moved relentlessly toward the centre of the town, driving out or killing automatic riflemen in their hideouts. . . . The dead piled up in cellars, attics and stairways and spilled through doorways. . . ."

Even before the capture of Mozhaisk, wounded and frost-bitten German troops were reported to have been moving to the rear at a rate of five to six trainloads daily.

Today's War Moves

yesterday. Unfortunately, the Japanese have a heavy preponderance in planes and are working them to the limit before the United Nations can catch up.

COVER WIDE AREA

Japanese planes are covering an incredible stretch of territory. They are currently active in Burma, Thailand, Malaya, Singapore, Borneo, Celebes, the Philippines, New Guinea and the Bismarck and Admiralty islands northeast of Australia. From Burma to the Bismarck archipelago is more than 4,000 miles.

The urgency of offsetting Japanese air superiority as soon as possible is being emphasized by Dr. Hubertus J. Van Mook, lieutenant governor-general of the Indies, who now is conferring with Washington officials. After Van Mook talked with President Roosevelt yesterday, Washington authorities were quoted as saying that if Singapore and the Indies can hold out for 30 days, air parity will be reached.

Thirty days sounds like an extremely optimistic estimate, but it does illustrate Washington's realization of the need for speed. Whether Singapore can hold out for a month is problematical, but not at all unlikely. The Dutch Indies almost certainly can. The Japanese have established a foothold on the northern part of Celebes and Borneo, but that is a different proposition from overcoming the vast group of defended islands stretching 3,500 miles from the northwestern tip of Sumatra to New Guinea.

TIME BIG FACTOR

Time is the pressing factor. Eventually the United States can outstrip Japan in producing war planes to a point of overwhelming superiority. President Roosevelt has called for 60,000 planes in 1942 and 125,000 more in 1943. But one plane in action now is worth several later.

At the outset of war, Japan was estimated roughly to have about 6,000 first-class planes. Even though they were spread over a wide field of action, they overmatched the planes of the United Nations in the southwestern Pacific, estimated at 2,000 at the most. Reinforcements have been arriving and Dr. Van Mook's air of optimism after his talk with Mr. Roosevelt indicates that nothing is being left undone in speeding up delivery.

UNION PLAN FINALLY ADOPTED

U.F.C. Votes Unanimously For Amalgamation In U.F.A.

Action Follows Strong Representations Here For Unifying 2 Groups

The convention of the United Farmers of Canada (Alberta Section) shortly before 2:30 p.m. Wednesday voted unanimously in favor of acceptance of the six points drawn up as a basis of amalgamation with the United Farmers of Alberta. The six-point plan was drawn up by a joint committee of the U.F.C. and U.F.A. and submitted to the conventions of both bodies.

Immediately following the vote, an invitation was sent by the U.F.C. to the U.F.A. to meet them in a joint session at 9 a.m. Thursday to discuss the amalgamation.

Amid continuous cries for "union now" that threatened to "blow the roof off" the Masonic Temple headquarters, delegates to the United Farmers of Canada (Alberta Section) convention settled to their mutual satisfaction five of six points which must be agreed upon before amalgamation with the United Farmers of Alberta can be realized.

At noon Wednesday, the point under discussion dealt with co-operatives at present operated by the U.F.A. throughout the province.

Three points were conceded by the U.F.A. Tuesday. These dealt with the non-political qualifications, restriction of membership to bona fide farmers only, and "direct action" as separate and apart from political action.

An agreement regarding compulsory membership was concurred in by the U.F.C., and delegates were whole-heartedly against amalgamating under the name of the U.F.A. This latter move was despite the plea of Robert Gardiner, U.F.A. president, who told the U.F.C. meeting Tuesday that the U.F.A. had nothing to be ashamed of in its name and was associated with political action only when such action was considered best for the farmers of the province.

The first spark of controversy was ignited Wednesday morning when a motion was put calling for the obtaining of a competent solicitor in the event of amalgamation to assist and advise in legal matters relative to consummation of the amalgamation, and to protect the interests of the U.F.C.

Ex-Ald. Rice Sheppard, Edmonton, told the delegates that in his opinion, "there probably isn't a solicitor in the city of Edmonton who understands the problems of the farmer. These delegates do understand the problems. Wait until you see trouble ahead before you order your board of directors

The Inquiring Reporter

THE QUESTION

Charles A. Lindbergh, isolationist and holder of the Nazi Iron Cross, is reported to have offered his services to the U.S. Army Air Corps. In view of his openly stated opposition to the policy of the present administration and general apathy towards the struggle against Axis tyranny, do you think his offer should be accepted?

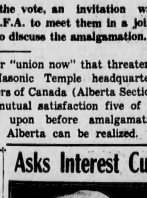

THE ANSWERS

WES. STANTON, traffic officer: I think Lindbergh is very much over-rated and if his offer of service is not accepted I do not think it will be very much of a handicap to the war effort of our partner in arms.

GEORGE EDWARDS, veteran: The United States can, in my opinion, get along quite well without Lindbergh. His chief accomplishment during times of stress was to stir up disunity and uncertainty in the minds of the people.

R. HUGHES, taxpayer: In my opinion Lindbergh should be put in a detention camp for the duration of the war, owing to his open leanings towards the Nazi system of government and utterances detrimental to the safety and well being of democracy.

Asks Interest Cut

Neil D. Maclean, K.C., newly-elected president of the Edmonton Provincial Liberal association, who addressed a meeting of the Women's Liberal club of Edmonton, in the Y. W. C. A. Tuesday afternoon.

Interest Cut Is Advocated To Liberals

Enactment, by the Dominion government, of legislation providing for the reduction of interest rates, was advocated by Neil D. Maclean, K.C., president of the Edmonton Provincial Liberal Association, in addressing a meeting of the Women's Liberal Club of Edmonton at the Y.W.C.A. on Tuesday. It was his first public address since being elected to the association presidency at its recent annual meeting. Mrs. J. R. Stewart, president of the sponsoring club, was in the chair and introduced Mr. Maclean to the audience.

"We are faced with a serious situation, and we should do everything possible to relieve the problem," Mr. Maclean declared. He advocated that the Liberal members of parliament be urged to propose to the Dominion government, the question of passing such legislation and that the Dominion government refer the matter to the courts for settlement.

In referring to reduction of interest rates in Alberta, he said "it seems to me that it is time the Liberal party, which is more or less independent of both the financial interests and the Social Credit

A-R-O-U-N-D THE TOWN

A meeting of the Second Great War Veterans' Association has been called for Thursday at 8 p.m. in the Agency building, 10057 Jasper avenue. All soldiers, sailors and airmen discharged from active service in this present war are invited to attend.

Revenue from the city license department up to January 18 this year amounted to $18,558.80 compared with $18,922.25 for the corresponding period last year, a report submitted by Thomas McCallum, city license inspector, to the city commissioners disclosed.

Lt.-Col. D. H. Tomlinson, chairman of the provincial branch of the Canadian Red Cross Society, Calgary, is a visitor in Edmonton, attending the monthly meeting of the Edmonton branch in the Civic block, at 4 p.m. Elmer Roper, president of the Edmonton branch, will be in the chair.

Gracie Bowen, 5, of 9346 108 Avenue, was struck by an automobile driven by James Stephen, 3 Weber block, Wednesday afternoon, police reported. The accident occurred at the intersection of 95 street and 108 avenue. The child received injuries to her face and legs, and her condition is not believed serious.

Fire, believed to have been caused by defective ignition wiring, caused slight damage to a truck parked on 99 street near 103 avenue, at 11:30 a.m. Wednesday. Donald Kyle, of Tofield, driver of the truck, was shopping in a nearby store when the blaze occurred. The pump-brigade from No. 1 hall responded to the alarm and quickly extinguished the flames.

F. J. Knight was re-elected president of the Royal Society of St. George at the recent annual meeting of the society. H. Glover was named vice-president; R. Ellis, second vice-president; D. R. Gittins, secretary, and G. Pyne, treasurer. Plans were made for the annual banquet to be held to mark St. George's Day, April 23, and for a series of social affairs, the first of which will be a get-together in the I.O.O.F. hall, 103 street, on Wednesday, January 28.

Busmen Work Without Sleep Cabinet Hears

Truck and bus drivers in Alberta sometimes are on duty for 60 to 70 hours without a break for sleep, members of the Alberta cabinet were told Tuesday by Larry O'Connell, Toronto, international vice-president of the street railway and bus drivers' union.

Mr. O'Connell was a member of a delegation from the Alberta Federation of Labor which presented a brief outlining a legislative program which it urged the provincial government to implement.

The delegation, headed by Alfred Farmilo, president of the federation, received a sympathetic hearing from the cabinet and was advised by Premier William Aberhart that many of its proposals already were being undertaken by gradual methods, while others would be implemented as quickly as conditions permitted.

CAN'T ORGANIZE

Mr. O'Connell stated that bus drivers, besides having to operate for long hours without sleep, had been subject to attempts by the operating companies to frustrate their efforts to organize. He urged that legislation be passed making compulsory a rest of at least eight hours between every day or night trip.

C. E. Marriott of the Edmonton fire fighters union, urged upon the government legislation giving firemen the same protection in compensation claims as is given to miners. When a miner is found dead at his work, he is given the benefit of the doubt in compensation claims as to whether his death resulted from his work.

Members of the delegation were Mr. Farmilo, Carl E. Berg, secretary-treasurer of the federation; T. G. Thompson, Edmonton, sheet metal workers and representative on the war labor board; J. A. Johnson, Calgary; Mr. Marriott, B. Small and J. A. Aston, fire fighters; C. Sieverts, painters' union; M. Ainslie, vice-president of the federation; Fred Sneed, Lethbridge, vice-president; Larry O'Connell; Ald. Sidney Parsons, president of the Edmonton Trades and Labor Council; A. J. Crawford, Toronto, international vice-president of the sheet metal workers and member of the national labor appeals board; R. W. Ellis, vice-president of the federation and member of the Civil Service Association; J. Wallin, Edmonton, packing plant employees.

Formation Of R.C.A.F. Band Is Underway: Second Planned

Formation of a military band at No. 4 Initial Training School of the R.C.A.F. here, with a second band likely to be formed later at the No. 3 Manning Depot, was announced Wednesday by Flt.-Lt. Norman Gilchrist, director of music for the R.C.A.F. in Canada and Newfoundland, who is here from Ottawa for a three-day visit.

Flt.-Lt. Gilchrist, who will make preliminary arrangements for the band at No. 4 I.T.S., said that qualified musicians should apply at No. 3 Recruiting Station in the Provincial building at once.

The first band will be composed of about 30 pieces.

Bandsmen are enlisted as special tradesmen, and as such receive extra pay. Enlisted men must, however, meet all medical and educational requirements of other active service airmen. Bandsmen in the air force wear an arm insignia and a special cap, similar to an officer's cap.

Applicants for enlistment must be able to read music and be thoroughly familiar with at least one instrument.

Bandsmen may be dispatched for service in any area in Canada or overseas.

There are more than 50 bands authorized at present, by the R.C.A.F.

"Bands are considered very necessary for manning depots and other training establishments, for building good morale," Flt-Lt. Gilchrist explained.

Getting Around

with Jack DeLong

Is the big city on the way out? Arthur Train, Jr., says so in a recent issue of a scientific magazine. But there's no need to worry over the immediate disappearance of that magnificent product of the twentieth century, the city slicker, or of the sudden formation of an army of hicks.

The change back to rustic respectability foreseen by Mr. Train, will not become really drastic until about 1960. By that time things should have settled down a bit. But even then, Mr. Train's ex-city dweller will be far removed from the popular picture of a present-day yokel.

Reason for the disappearance of the city is the best in the world, according to Mr. Train. The reason for cities existing will have passed away.

Cities were built, he claims, so that people could more conveniently do business with each other. In more primitive times the exchange of goods and services was facilitated by people living close together.

That may come as something of a shock. Some of us thought the primary justification for a city was the real estate business. Next to that cities are necessary for the operation of a good baseball or hockey league.

But in the future, says Mr. Train, we'll start a back-to-the-land movement because swift modes of travel and communication make such crowding not only unsanitary but downright silly.

There'll be no return to the covered wagon days. We'll take all the handy gadgets, such as plumbing, vacuum cleaners, radios and the like with us. And there'll be many more nimble little servants and ornaments with which to brighten up the old "homestead" of 1985, predicts Mr. Train.

Mr. Train claims one can observe the trend toward city decentralization in operation in some of the larger centres right now. The skyscraper is being replaced by the low, spacious type of building. Houses are being placed on the outside of city blocks, facing inward on parks filled with playgrounds, where children are safe from the dangers of traffic.

Homes will be prefabricated, equipped with radio, television, indirect lighting and dust proof furniture. Again, says Mr. Train, you can observe the trend if you keep your eyes open.

Homes will be traded in on new ones, as models change from year to year as in the case of automobiles.

The nearest thing to the city will be big, roomy wholesome community centres, situated here and there in a planned system of national housing. Goods and services will be distributed from these centres. It will be difficult to tell when you enter or leave town, says Mr. Train.

And all this in 1985. What was that famous lament about being born 20 years too soon?

Volunteers Seek Places In Army

Recruiting at the Prince of Wales Armory held steady Tuesday, with 26 men applying for entry into general reinforcement units of the Canadian Army (Active) under the 24th quota.

The quota calls for a total of 467 recruits in the province, it was announced by Maj. J. H. Gainor, district recruiting officer for M.D. 13.

Thirteen of the men who presented themselves Tuesday passed the medical board.

There were a dozen more waiting to enlist Wednesday morning.

Square Pegs In Round Holes Soon

Scientific Mental Tests Held

Might Be Thing Of The Past

Square pegs in round holes should soon be a thing of the past as far as the air force is concerned. The new scientific mental alertness test that all recruits for the R.C.A.F. must take, is designed to see the right man gets the right job.

Flt. Lt. H. E. Jones, officer commanding Edmonton recruiting headquarters of the R.C.A.F., is enthusiastic about the tests, which have become the first of their kind for all applicants for enlistment. Flt. Lt. Jones predicts they will soon come into routine use for all branches of the armed services. Even in selecting personnel for civilian jobs they may become universal, the officer thinks.

RESULTS VARY

The tests prove the truth of the old assertion that the race is not always to the swift.

"A fellow with a grade eight school education recently had a passing mark of 75 per cent, much higher marks than some university students," said Flt.-Lt. Jones.

Outcome of the tests, he said, are not without humorous results.

"Young fellows come charging in, filled with a perfect understanding of what they are fitted for in their own minds," he explained. "The test shows very conclusively they are unsuited for what they figured on. Some of them are pretty badly disappointed. Then we tell them the tests indicate in what capacity they should properly serve and they brighten up again," he said.

There are several sets of questions and this makes it possible to ascertain with a high degree of exactitude what the applicant will be best fitted for.

Exact nature of the questions are a secret. They are answered in writing.

"Sometimes a brilliant fellow will display everything required for aircrew duty except the most important quality of all—courage. But just two questions will give us the answer to this one," Flt. Lt. Jones observed.

About 1,000 recruits have taken the tests here since the first of the year.

City Resident Named Leader By Surveyors

W. E. Zinkan, of Edmonton, was elected president of the Alberta Land Surveyors' association at the annual dinner meeting held Tuesday night at the Macdonald hotel.

Guest speakers were Hon. W. A. Fallow minister of public works, and Dr. R. S. L. Wilson, dean of applied science at the University of Alberta. Other guests were G. H. N. Monkman, deputy minister of public works; N. W. MacPherson, highway commissioner, and A. W. Haddow, Edmonton city engineer.

PLAY IMPORTANT PART

Referring to the important part technically trained men must play in the war effort and post-war reconstruction, Mr. Fallow urged the engineering and allied professions to give serious attention to the establishment of a more equitable social order after the war, and to see that the products of their skill and knowledge would be utilized for the greater benefit of all.

Dean Wilson said that the time, man-power and resources of the country must be used to the full in the prosecution of the war. In these things, he said, Hitler held no advantage over the allies but "in order to link him we must utilize them as efficiently and thoroughly as the Nazis do."

OTHERS ELECTED

Other officers elected were: Vice-president, C. H. Snell, Red Deer; secretary-treasurer and registrar, J. H. Holloway, Edmonton; council, A. P. C. Belyea and H. S. Day of Edmonton, A. Cormack, D. T. Townsend and G. Z. Pinder of Calgary, and J. W. Dose of Fort Saskatchewan.

School Board Will Improve Room Lighting

City schools where lighting is bad and fall below the required medical standard, will be equipped with fluorescent lighting, if decision of the property committee of the Edmonton Public school board is approved by the board at its next meeting. Decision to experiment with the lighting was made at a meeting of the property committee in the civic block, Tuesday night.

G. G. McConachie, committee chairman, made the proposal, which was ratified by the committee. The chairman stated that it would not entail additional expense and could be done well within the proposed expenditure for maintenance during 1942, of $35,000.

ORIGINAL TURNED DOWN

The original estimate for maintenance, of $41,596 was turned down at a previous meeting, and a new estimate of $35,596 was proposed Tuesday. On motion of Trustee A. E. Ottewell, it was decided to increase this to $35,000. Trustee Ottewell also urged that $1,000 be spent to repair the east brick wall of Eastwood high school which has seriously deteriorated.

A motion to build two storm porches on the north side of Westglen high school was proposed and rejected. The committee was told that the rejection of the proposal would allow for the installation of a better lighting system in a number of rooms in older schools.

Rewiring a poor lighting system in certain schools would be too extravagant, it was stated, and fluorescent lighting would be more satisfactory and cheaper.

Former "Bush" Pilot Is Named To Position With C.P.R. Airlines

C. H. "Punch" Dickins, D.F.C., O.B.E., formerly of Edmonton, famous Canadian northland flier, and recently operating manager of the R.A.F. ferry command, has been appointed assistant to L. B. Unwin, vice-president of finance of the Canadian Pacific Railway, who has jurisdiction over the company's air activities, it was learned in Edmonton Wednesday.

"Punch" Dickins has flown war planes over Europe, patrolled the Rockies with the forestry aviation branch, opened the Barren Lands of the North, pioneered western air express and mail flights. In the last year alone he blazed 75,000 miles of northland aerial trails.

Since February 1, 1941, acting as operating manager of the Ferry Command at Montreal, he won outstanding success in developing the great military bomber delivery system to Britain. He brings to his new position, experience extending over a lifetime of constructive aviation.

Mr. Dickins, a Canadian born in Portage La Prairie, served overseas during the first Great War, first in the infantry, and subsequently in the Royal Flying Corps, where he won the Distinguished Flying Cross.

DOWNED SEVEN PLANES

He has seven enemy planes to his credit.

Peace-time flying began with Punch Dickins in "barnstorming" days, and in 1926 the Red Lake gold rush launched him as a northland aviation pioneer.

The year 1927 found him working as a pilot with Western Canada Airways. The subsequent development of mining led him to the unmapped barren trails of the North West Territories. He was awarded the McKee trophy for what was then described as the

Your Figure Madame! — By Ida Jean Kain

How flexible are you? As you get along in years, your joint and ligaments tend to stiffen up unless you keep them in good working order. A test of flexibility is a test of physical fitness, so let's see what you can do.

Can you go into a deep-knee bend without creaking? If you take that test the hard way, it is without shoes and with your heels on the floor as you bend your knees. But however you take it, if your knee joints creak, you are getting old before your time.

Is your waist supple enough to let you twist and turn easily—that's why nature narrowed this middle joint! Try this: Sit on the floor with legs extended, feet apart, hands clasped back of neck. Now try to touch right elbow to right knee, then twist to touch right elbow to left knee. You should be able to do that with the greatest of ease.

From a standing position, how far sideward can you bend without taking your feet off the floor? Stand with feet slightly apart, one arm stretched overhead, the other hanging at the side. As you bend sideward, slide your hand down the thigh and leg. You should have no difficulty in reaching the calf!

If you cannot bend, twist and turn easily, there may be an obstruction—too much waistline. And that's what you get from not bending!

You can recover your flexibility by putting your joints through their entire range of motion every day. This is a small amount of exercise but it keeps you from getting stiff as you grow older and it gives you a heightened sense of well being through stimulation to nerve endings in the joints.

Bend your forearms back at the elbows and touch fingertips at shoulders—just flex your biceps a few times. Then rest fingers on shoulders and make backward circles, moving arms at shoulder sockets. Finally, move the entire shoulder girdle, pulling shoulder blades close together in back and drawing them down, forward and up again. That helps to take away the tension between your shoulders.

To loosen and limber your waist, place hands on hips and circle trunk at the waist in first one direction, then the other.

To take the creaks out of your knees, sit on a table and swing your legs back and forth freely. Then stand up and rest one hand on the table as you swing legs from hip joints, free and easy.

You can exercise your finger joints by closing the hand in a tight fist, then spreading fingers wide apart; and the toe joints—pull them out with the fingers, and rotate your feet at the ankles.

Add to these the flexibility tests and you've got an exercise program that will keep you supple and fit.

Try this on your knee-joints! Mildred Coles, lovely screen starlet, shows you how it is done. You may have to hang on to something at first, but practice will make you perfect.

Short-Cut Route to Playing Piano

"Won't You Play My Favorite!"

Playing a man's favorite tune is a step toward being his favorite girl! So, if you want to learn the piano, you've a good idea.

It's a practical idea, too, for you can teach yourself, quickly, with a keyboard chart.

This chart cuts short the often painful period of learning to read music. It pictures, life-size, the most used part of the piano keyboard and with each key is the note for it.

When you place this paper keyboard behind your real keyboard, as in our sketch, you see at once which key to play for each note.

You can play simple pieces almost at once and the day when you can play a number of popular airs isn't so far distant—especially as there's a short-cut way to learning the hits.

From your first home lesson you have fun yourself—and soon give pleasure to others.

To learn the short-cut way, see our 24-page instruction book. A simple home course, it includes the keyboard chart, an explanation of the elements of music, three tunes for practise.

It is impossible to christen a ship with champagne or any other thing because a ship can't be christened. The meaning of the word "Christen" is to make a person a Christian. So only people can be christened—not ships. The British Admiralty does not use the word "Christen" when launching a ship, but instead uses the following expression: "I name thee so and so."

She left Kansas City by plane, only to be grounded at St. Louis for two hours; she went on to Indianapolis but again she was grounded. She telephoned Richmond to tell me she would be unable to get there in time for the first session of the event Tuesday evening and asked for a substitute, saying that she would be there Wednesday evening.

She then took the train to Washington, but the train from Washington would not get her to Richmond in time for the second session and while the planes were crowded, she finally persuaded the airline officials to get her a seat. Arriving at Richmond she found the taxis on strike and had to thumb a ride to the hotel, but she got there just in time to take her place for the second session Wednesday night.

After the third session was over Thursday evening, she and her Cleveland partner, playing their first major event together, had come close to the championship. The persistence of this girl from Kansas City is shown in the following hand.

Ann Bryant, sitting West, doubled twice and finally bid the opponents' suit in an effort to make East disclose whether he held four hearts. She could always run out in clubs in case East reponded with any other suit or no trump.

After the heart bid was wrung from East at the level of four, North thought he had a sure-fire double. His hearts should win two tricks, as they did, and he did not see how declarer could win ten tricks with both the diamonds and spades against him. The unbid club suit that turned up in dummy was a surprise and a shock. Of course Feinberg made the contract easily.

War Casualties

LONDON, Jan. 21. — (CP) — The Admiralty today announced the names of 322 casualties "not connected with any particular ship or incident, but which were sustained in meeting general hazards of the war." Two Royal Canadian Volunteer Reserve officers and five Royal Canadian Navy ratings whose names previously had been made public in Canada were mentioned in the list.

Your Baby And Mine

We wonder how many Christmas toys are still intact? We can guarantee that all of those too fragile for childish handling already have found their way to the ash-can.

But what of those wonderful toys bought with such glad anticipation of the children's pleasure? Have they, too, been mishandled and thrown about and destroyed? Or did you rescue them for future use?

Destruction — malicious, irresponsible destruction — isn't causeless behavior and we do the children an injustice when we punish them and ignore what lies behind their conduct. They destroy what they do not enjoy and this destruction may be their only means of expressing such emotion as indifference, boredom, annoyance or revengefulness.

The indifference might well be the result of having been given too many toys so that each diminished in importance and interest. That is, fortunately, a situation over which parents have control. They can put away some toys to be presented later when the old familiar ones have lost their appeal.

Boredom might result if the boys received were designed for a younger child. The owner, finding no incentive to play with blocks or toys with which he had played many times in the past, would treat them roughly, getting excitement out of destruction.

Not boredom, but irritation, might be the emotion inspired by a toy which was a little too far beyond the child's understanding and capacity for enjoyment. Those complicated sectional toys, those materials for making airplanes or boats or whatnot can be thrilling only if the child is old enough to use his imagination and construct them according to plan.

While revenge seems to be a far-fetched reason for destructiveness, we do know that things can represent people. The toy which reminds a child of nothing but the tat-i-vities critical relative who presented it would get the same treatment the child would like to give to the givers.

All of these possibilities need consideration before one metes out ready punishment because, as his mother says, "Willy is such a destructive child."

Our leaflet, "Destructive Tendencies, may be had by sending a three-cent stamped, self-addressed envelope to me in care of this newspaper.

Dorothy Dix Says:

How much love does it take to marry on? No question is asked me oftener than this, and it is a strange question because it would seem that it is one to which each individual man's and woman's heart should be able to unerringly give its answer. But while science has devised a lie detector and an instrument for determining our blood pressure, human ingenuity has never invented a gadget that will measure the amount and strength of our emotions.

The trouble seems to be that we get all of our ideas about love from novels and the movies. Both of them are unreliable authority, and for the ordinary person to try to live up to their ideals would be as ridiculous as it would be for a busy housewife to cook breakfast and do the family washing attired in a white satin negligee trimmed in ostrich feathers, or a grocery clerk to go to work in a Romeo costume.

Nevertheless, there are plenty of plain, practical men and women who do apply these cinema and sixth-best-seller tests of love to their affections, and because they do not thrill and palpitate at the sound of a footstep and only know of burning kisses by hearsay, they conclude that they are not in love and turn down the highly eligible and companionable men and women of whom they are very fond and who would make them happy homes and splendid mates.

And so I would urge the boys and girls and especially the middle-aged men and women, who do not know whether they love enough to risk marriage with some man or woman whom they admire and respect and whose society they enjoy, not to apply the Hollywood test to their feelings, but a practical one.

If you are a man and you feel that everything is all right with the world when Mary is around and everything is wrong when she isn't, if you feel that you want to roll up your sleeves and go to work to give her things, and if you want to protect her and stand between her and the hardships of life; or, if you are a woman and want to mother John, if his faults are dearer to you than and other man's virtues; if you never get tired of hearing him talk about himself and his hopes and plans, and if you are always worrying about whether he gets enough to eat and whether he has holes in his socks and if he wraps up his throat when it is cold, then be assured you are in love, no matter whether you have heart failure or not when you see him coming down the street. You've got enough love to marry on.

Try This Old Home-Mixed Cough Relief. Surprising!

Anyone Can Make It. No Cooking. Big Saving.

You may not know it, but, in your own kitchen, and in just a moment, you can easily prepare a really surprising relief for coughs due to colds. It's old-fashioned—your mother probably used it—but for real results, it is hard to beat.

First, make a syrup by stirring 2 cups granulated sugar and one cup of water a few moments, until dissolved. No cooking needed. No trouble at all.

Then get 2½ ounces of Pinex from any druggist. This is a special compound of proven ingredients, in concentrated form, well known for prompt action in throat and bronchial irritations.

Put the Pinex into a 16 ounce bottle, and add your syrup. Thus you make sixteen ounces of really splendid cough syrup, and you get about four times as much for your money. It never spoils, and children love its pleasant taste.

And for quick relief, it's splendid. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritated membranes, eases the soreness, makes breathing easy, and lets you get restful sleep. Just try it, and if not pleased, your money will be refunded.

President's Report Is Highlight Of Convention On Wednesday

OFFICIAL opening of the 27th annual convention of the United Farm Women of Alberta got underway in the Macdonald hotel on Wednesday, when Rev. Father Briere read the invocation prayer, to a large number of delegates from all parts of Alberta.

Mrs. Winifred Ross, president of the U.F.W.A., was named to act as chairman for the sessions. Greetings to the women were brought by Mr. Robert Gardiner, president of the U.F.A., which is meeting in convention in the main dining room of the hotel, and from Mr. Eugene O'Neil, vice-president of the Junior U.F.A.

In her executive and board report Mrs. J. B. Learned of Sylvan Lake, told members "Once again we meet under the dark cloud of a gigantic world war. We can only carry on, and each member must play her part to the utmost of her ability." She reported that five executive meetings had been held and that each constituency with the exception of Peace River, has been visited by one member of the executive. She spoke of the new pamphlet issued by the U.F.W.A., that is now ready for distribution.

Mrs. Learned also spoke of the activity of the association in war work throughout the past year. To the Red Cross, and other war purposes, a sum of money in the neighborhood of $2,000 had been donated. Added to this sum a large amount of knitting, sewing and numerous other articles had been subscribed to war work.

Further highlights of the morning session were addresses by Mrs. Richard Proctor of the Red Cross, Mr. H. E. Wilson, of the Institute for the Blind, and also a report on horticulture by Mrs. R. B. Williamson.

An exhibit of Red Cross work was on display in the Jasper room of the hotel.

PRESIDENT'S REPORT

Highlighting the early afternoon was the president's report, given by Mrs. Winifred Ross. Mrs. Ross expressed great appreciation on the progress made during the past year by the U.F.W.A. organization, stating that for the first time in several years an increase in membership had been shown.

To the women she said: "There has never been a time when the women were more alive to our economic and social problems than at the present time, realizing that we have never stood in greater need of a complete mobilization of our economic, intellectual and moral forces than now."

STRUGGLE FOR SECURITY

"Our struggle for economic security in the home, for adequate health services available to every citizen, and for equal educational opportunity for every child and youth of our land, is the more necessary as the war goes on."

Speaking of the health services, Mrs. Ross said: "Would it be too much to ask that the federal government assume leadership in a national health education campaign, calling regular conferences with the provinces to plan specific health programs on a national scale?"

Mrs. Ross stated that one of the most important matters to come before the convention would be that of the considered amalgamation with the United Farmers of Canada (Alberta section). She said that she would like to feel that the farm people have enough common sense to all work together. "If we cannot work together with people of our own calling, how can we expect to play our part in the more complex society of building a world order?"

She spoke of the critical situation in world affairs today and stressed the need for a new peace written in terms of housing, jobs, raw materials and social justice for people everywhere.

EFFECTIVE CHANNEL

In conclusion, Mrs. Ross said: "Our farm women's organization can be made one of the most effective channels for service to ourselves, to our community and to the nation, if we each only play our part."

Later in the afternoon an address on the new poultry marketing legislation was given by Hon. E. C. Manning. This was followed by a practical demonstration of a U.F.W.A. at work. A report on child and family welfare was given by Mrs. A. Payne, a talk on child guidance by Miss L. A. Munro and a report on Olds School of Community Life by Mrs. M. Banner.

"Froth" Dance Is Gay Affair Of Tuesday

SCINTILLATING music and happy laughter echoed through the Barn on Tuesday evening when more than 200 studentsof the University of Alberta danced at "The Froth." The semi-formal affair took the place of the two formals, the Freshmen dance and the Sophmore reception to Freshmen students. "The Froth," the name of the attractive affair, was thus a combination of the two words Frosh and Soph.

Simple in motif and arrangement, the dance proved a great success. Instead of the traditional corsage each coed wore a tiny red, white and blue ribbon with a small white ambulance on it. The money from the ribbons went to the Ambulance Fund which the students at the university are sponsoring.

Programs for the dance were done in blue and white with scarlet printing.

What To Do

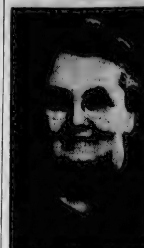

I am planning a Southern trip by automobile and don't know exactly what type of clothes to take along. I will be stopping for several days at a large resort hotel.

Answer—Have a wrinkle-proof dress for driving. You can secure this in a dark shade—and as you get into warmer weather, add light accessories to make it more suitable to the climate.

Take a couple of spectator sport dresses, a couple of evening dresses and an evening wrap unless your coat can do double duty in this capacity. If you will engage in active sports take the proper clothes for your sport—and pack a bathing suit if you'll be near water.

Check carefully over all your clothes to be sure buttons are secure and hems are right. Plan your shoes, hats, bags and gloves to offset your dresses, be sure your cosmetics are adequate and right—then start off for a grand time.

French Club At Varsity Hears Addresses

More than 50 members of Le Cercle Francais at the University of Alberta heard addresses by Mr. E. J. H. Greene and Mr. H. Jacobs, both of the French department of the university, at their meeting in St. Joseph's College one afternoon recently.

Both the speakers told of how they escaped from occupied countries during the war.

Thrilling was the only word for Mr. Greene's tale of how he escaped from Paris only twenty-four hours before the Nazis took over the city. Leaving his thesis for his Ph.D. in the basement of a Parisian home, Mr. Greene escaped from the city on a bicycle. He travelled south for almost a week sleeping in haystacks or stables for any other accommodation was impossible as about half the population of Paris to say nothing of Dutch and Belgian refugees were travelling in the same direction.

Reaching Tours Mr. Greene related how he just managed to catch the last train leaving for Bordeaux. "I finished my trip to the southern coast of France with an American and his wife. In the back seat of an ancient car they had their four cats, a dog and all their luggage. To our horror we missed what was supposed to be the last boat to England, and we were in despair. Fate was with us, however, and a few days later we disembarked for that haven—England."

The second speaker for the afternoon, Mr. Jacobs, also had an exciting story to tell about his experience in war-torn Europe. Mr. Jacobs was in Germany only a year before the war broke out. "At the time of Munich," said Mr. Jacobs, "the situation for foreigners became uncomfortable in Germany." Everywhere there were signs of the coming struggle. Mr. Jacobs travelled to Norway and hence to Sweden, where he tried to get passage home. The securing of a ticket proved to be no easy matter, but after great difficulty Mr. Jacobs got accommodation on a boat for England.

ENTERTAINMENT

Musical entertainment for the afternoon was provided by Miss Myrna Hirtle, who is soon to be seen by Edmonton and Calgary audiences in the leading role of "The Pirates of Penzance." Miss Hirtle was accompanied at the piano by Miss Betty McNally.

Previous to the meeting the members of the club had tea. Pouring tea and assisting during the tea hour were the members of the reception committee, Miss Jean Eagleson, Miss Theresa Barry, Miss Erma McCoy, Miss Marilyn Diamond and Miss Ruth Baker.

The meeting was arranged by the executive of the club, Mr. H. Jacobs, president; Miss Helen Hardy, vice-president; Miss Moira Law, secretary, and Mr. Hugh Davidson, treasurer. Miss Hardy was in the chair.

City School Children Forward Canned Foods To Great Britain

Approximately 5,000 tins of canned foods will be sent from Edmonton school children, to the children of Britain, in the near future, it was learned Wednesday.

The Edmonton school children have been collecting tins of vegetables, fruits and soups to be sent overseas, the work being supervised by women workers of the Canadian Red Cross Society, Edmonton branch. Officials estimate that close to 5,000 tins will be collected by the end of the month, when the campaign will be closed, after two months' work.

EARLY DONATIONS SOUGHT

Groups who have promised to donate canned foods are asked to turn them in to the special depot in the King Edward hotel building, 101 street, as soon as possible.

Last week, donations totalled 1,400 tins, and a recent lot of large contributions have sent the number rocketing to 5,000.

STILL COMING IN

Among contributions are 750 tins from Victoria High school; 253 from Rutherford; 238 from McDougall Commercial; 183 from Westglen; 15 from Lynwood Kindergarten where there are 15 children, and other contributions from rooms in Oliver, Highland and Garneau schools and the East Edmonton Baseline school, as well as from local firms and individuals.

thing about it, but how many of us know enough about it to let it stop our amalgamating?"

Voice: "I'm here to amalgamate and get parity prices. We're not going to get parity prices until we do amalgamate. Let's amalgamate first and settle our problems afterwards."

A new motion was placed before the house, calling for action on amalgamation to be delayed until the next convention.

Mr. Sheppard further moved that the convention ask the U.F.A. to arrange for a joint meeting between the two delegations. Discussion on this matter was tabled.

Motion was placed before the house that the U.F.A. co-operatives be owned and operated by the new organization.

The feeling was voiced by a speaker from the floor that "75 per cent, of us here came to vote for amalgamation (cheers) and the U.F.A. also wants amalgamation. "Our trouble," he said, "is that we don't want to take in their co-operatives because they aren't owned by the patrons of these co-ops. The co-op. enterprise has proved its worth by building up assets over the past few years of $80,000. The only difference we want in these co-operatives is to see them owned by the patrons. Of course we're in favor of co-operatives."

Slated for the afternoon session was a further discussion of amalgamation, and submission and discussion of resolutions.

to run up a solicitor's bill of probably thousands of dollars. Leave the whole matter in the hands of the board."

Chairman Francis Austin of Vegreville told the meeting that at the present moment, delegates were heading towards putting the whole thing off until next year.

"Is that what you want?" he asked.

Loud shouts of "no" greeted his question.

President Chester McGowan, Hairy Hill, advised the delegates not to be too hasty. "We are here to lay the cornerstone of amalgamation," he said, "and we want to do it right. There is a danger that if we do it too quickly, both organizations will cease to be of any value. I can't see at the present time that we will be able to amalgamate this week."

WASTE OF TIME

"It certainly seems a waste of time to have two conventions in Edmonton this week when one could do the work," Chairman Austin remarked.

"It strikes me that our two boards have come to pretty much of an agreement. As far as a name goes, we have agreed on practically any name but the U.F.A.

"They have something in their organization that we haven't got," he continued. "Both organizations could iron out their difficulties within an hour simply by sending a committee from each organization to a solicitor's office. If we are prepared to do that, we can amalgamate tomorrow."

Mr. Austin declared the convention should tell its board of directors "we want the amalgamate and forget about the co-operative angle. I think we've been pretty flabby about condemning the U.F.A. co-operatives. How many of us know anything about it?"

Voice: "I know something about it!"

Mr. Austin: "You know something of the first air mail plane over the prairie route on December 10, 1928. He was in charge of Western Canada Airways' first regular service from Winterwaya, Alta., to Aklavik, on the Arctic ocean.

In 1935 he piloted Dr. Charles Camsell, deputy minister of mines on a 10,000 mile survey of northern mineral lands. In that year he was honored with the Order of the British Empire for outstanding feats in the development of northern aviation for the company.

Cutty Sark Member Asks A New Badge

Member of the Edmonton Cutty Sark Club, an organization of retired merchant seamen, Mrs. C. P. Dunlop of Glasgow, Scot., is asking for another badge.

The first one she had was lost on the first day of the war when the Athenia went down—she was aboard the ship as chief stewardess and lost everything when the ship was destroyed. She has written to J. H. Logan, of Edmonton Welch, for the new badge, which will be sent.

In her letter she referred to the April "Bliss" in Scotland in which every door and window in her home was blown out, although she was unhurt.

Mrs. Dunlop sent greetings to other Cutty Sark members, D. Urquhart, C. Mann, D. Graham, A. Young and J. Walker.

Speed-Up Medical Courses Is Urged

Senate and board, of governors of the faculty of medicine were urged to accellerate all medical courses as a war measure in recommendations made at a meeting of the medical faculty council held this week.

The council made three recommendations that will be forwarded to the senate.

In the first, the principle of a general acceleration of all medical courses as a war measure was set forth.

The second recommendation urged the university to support the medical undergrads society in its quest for government aid.

The third recommendation was for the setting up of a committee by the senate and board of governors to consider the recommendations and plan action the committee may deem appropriate.

Interest Cut Is Advocated To Liberals

party, do everything in its power to have adequate legislation providing for reduced rate of interest rates and to do away with the fighting and bickering which has been going on. There must be a reasonable solution to the impasse which has now been reached," he said.

"Reduction of interest rates is a matter for the Dominion government," Mr. Maclean asserted and added that "whilst the Dominion is doubtless loath to give the right to the Social Credit government to cut interest rates because the Social Credit government might use the right to turn it to political purposes," the Dominion, in placing the whole matter before the courts, would allow for an equitable solution to the problem.

REGRETS BELIEF

"In speaking to you today of the provincial government and the courts, I say that it is a very sad thing that within the British Commonwealth of Nations, there should be a large body of government which distrusts the courts. It is a fact that both the government itself and a large part of the Social Credit party, actually believe that the courts are against them; that the courts have prevented their efforts to carry out Social Credit and that the courts have been playing politics to aid the side of finance.

"Let me go over the situation and tell how it arose and make some suggestions which possibly might provide something to alleviate the situation.

To understand it, we have to understand the position of the provinces and the Dominion. We have a charter in the Dominion, the British North America act, which is more or less rigid. Previously the existing provinces, Prince Edward Island, Nova Scotia, New Brunswick, Lower and Upper Canada and British Columbia made their own laws, and the charter was formed to bring them together and form the Dominion of Canada.

"Under the act, certain powers were divided between the Dominion and the provinces. By Section 91, the Dominion had jurisdiction over banking, currency and interest. Under section 92, the provinces were given certain rights including jurisdiction over property and civil rights.

"A long series of cases have since occurred, in which the courts have been called upon to define the respective powers of the Dominion and the provinces. The courts are outside of politics, and the judges are free of political affiliations, and just verdicts have been given as to the allotment of powers to the Dominion and provincial governments.

"At present there is a conflict on the question of interest, a conflict in progress since 1935.

"After the crash of 1929 prices went down; there was want and misery in the city and on the farms. Unemployment was prevalent, after a period of great prosperity when borrowing at high interest rates had been in vogue.

"The province had been paying interest rates of 5 to 8½ per cent., and farmers and citizens 8, 9 and 10 per cent. Borrowing had taken place when times were good, but when bad times came, it was 'difficult to meet the debts, and in 1935, the people carried a heavy load.

"About that time Major C. H. Douglas was proclaiming his gospel of Social Credit in England, with promise of dividends for all. Wm. Aberhart, later premier of this province, was then a school teacher in Calgary, with a splendid record, and was also a lay preacher. He accepted the Douglas doctrine, and in the election, the Social Credit party was brought to power in a protest sweep.

"Major Douglas was invited to Alberta to organize the Social Credit government, but he failed to come.

"Lacking Douglas, the Social Credit Party, in 1937, decided to act without him, and instituted a series of acts which have been regarded by many, and perhaps even themselves, as mistakes

SOME OF THE ACTS

"The acts allowed for establishment of Social Credit banks, the prevention of certain classes of cases being taken to court, control of the press, the prevention of the provincial government's statutes being attacked, and some of the most ill-conceived and savage legislation ever passed.

"Seven of the Social Credit acts were disallowed by the Governor-General in council, to three of the acts, the Lieutenant-Governor of Alberta refused his assent, and nine of the acts have since been set aside by the courts.

"In all, the Social Credit government has made more constitutional history than any other body in the world.

"Recently the courts disallowed two acts: the Debt Adjustment Act and the Orderly Payment of Debts Act. A board had been set up, under the first act, and before any one could sue for old debts incurred prior to 1936 and before action could be taken, it was necessary to get a license from the Debt Adjustment Board, the board granting no permit without insisting that the rate of interest be one wherever it was over five per cent.

"The act allowed for reduction of excess interest rates and gave the deserving debtor time to pay. The act also disallowed the previous provincial government Statute of Limitation under which no debt older than six years could be collected.

"The court declared the Debt Adjustment Act invalid and with it went the disallowance of the Statute of Limitation. The result was that debts extended beyond the six-year period during the legislation, were uncollectable under the previous act.

"Under the Orderly Payment of Debts Act, farmers and city people not in a position to pay their debts were allowed to make pro-tem payments according to their circumstances. A scale was established for that purpose. That act was also declared ultra vires by the courts.

MORATORIUM IN EFFECT

"Now a moratorium on debts made prior to July 1, 1936 has been declared by the Social Credit government. It is a bad thing for everybody, and I don't know that anybody wants it.

"The Liberals have got to suggest something to take care of the debtor. Some concrete suggestions might be brought to the attention of our members in the legislature. The Liberal party is not a party of the monied interests. We should be in a position to make some active contribution to readjust the matter. There must be a reasonable solution for the impasse now reached.

"We have come back to the division of power between the Dominion and the provincial governments on the question of interest. The old interest rates should be reduced.

SEEKS MACHINERY

"We must get some machinery for legally reducing it. We might suggest that since the provincial government cannot do it, it is a Dominion matter. The Dominion is doubtless loath to give the right to the Social Credit group to cut interest, because they may fear, perhaps justly, that the Social Credit group will use the right for political purposes.

"The Dominion government could refer the matter to the courts. The Liberals can do something to get their members to suggest to the government the passing of an act in which any stipulation as to the rate of interest, past or future, be subject to the order of the court.

"Then the Dominion government could pass validating legislation. Judges are now acting as chairmen of the various Farmers' Creditors' Arrangement Act boards and have shown no disinclination to reduce interest.

SOMETHING MUST BE DONE

"Something must be done to get the Social Credit government to have some faith in the courts. They are very bitter now, but from my long experience I have found that in every case the court is on the side of the underdog. Often the judge might be regarded as the senior council for the underdog.

"If the government could only bring itself to trust the courts it would find that the unfortunate individual is always given good treatment.

"In Calgary and Edmonton there used to be attached to the court a Master in Chambers, who had power to act in certain cases, including the handling of mortgages.

"A few years ago, the offices were abolished," but the jobs are still there. If the Social Credit group wanted to appoint their own men to the jobs, they could be trusted and would do the job properly.

SHOULD PROVIDE LEGISLATION

"Legislation should be provided allowing the courts to reduce the rates of interest, and the Social Credit government could appoint their own men as Master in Chambers.

"We are faced with a serious situation and we should do everything possible to relieve the situation.

"It seems to me it is time that the Liberal party, which is more or less independent of the financial group and the Social Credit group, have its members in the legislature suggest such an arrangement as this. It would do away with the fighting and bickering, and might provide a measure of economy in the cutting down of Privy Council charges."

A vote of thanks was moved for the address by Mr. Maclean was urged by Alderman Gwendolen A. Clarke. "We hear a lot of destructive criticism, and when we hear some constructive criticism, such as we have heard today, I think we should all get behind it," she said.

U.F.A. Reports Co-Op. Surplus Of $85,288.85

The accumulated surplus of the U.F.A. Central Co-Operative Association Ltd., stands at $85,288.85, according to figures read when the annual report of the Co-Operative was presented to delegates at the U.F.A. convention Wednesday forenoon.

The report indicated that in spite of several militating factors during 1941, especially the restrictions of the oil controller for Canada and the unusual crop season, the progress of the Central co-operative has been most gratifying.

In spite of oil controller restrictions the sale of gasoline during 1941 increased by 6.41 per cent over the 1940 sales.

BULK PURCHASES

Poor crops, bad harvest weather and a greater use of combines caused a considerable decrease in the sale of binder twine during 1941, the report revealed. Handlings during 1941 amounted to 853,906 pounds as compared with 1,800,000 pounds the previous year.

There has been a tendency recently on the part of farmers to increase their purchases through the co-operative of numerous bulk products such as feed, salt, and coal. Central orders for cedar posts have also been increased to such an extent that difficulty was found in filling the orders.

There was considerable expansion in connection with handling of Maple Leaf oil products during the year. In Edmonton the U.F.A. Co-Op. Service No. 2 was opened and the new central plant at Calgary was enlarged considerably.

LIVESTOCK AGENCY

The board announced enthusiasm over their participation in assisting with selling up a central selling agency for livestock in the province. The board believes that the service given to the livestock men of this province in the setting up of a central selling agency more than justified the expenditure entailed.

It announced that headway had been made during the year in setting up implement co-operative associations in the province. Five new associations had been formed to add to the one in the Wetaskiwin district that was formed the previous year.

The board reported a year much busier than usual necessitating the calling of many extra meetings to handle problems arising out of oil restrictions, licensing, policies, renewal of contract with Maple Leaf Petroleum Ltd., changes in staff personnel due to the war, and expansion of the warehouse and store.

Eight Vets Re-Enlist

Eight men who served in the First Great War and who have returned to service with the Veterans' Guard of the Canadian Army (Active), left Edmonton Wednesday for Calgary.

The party, which was in charge of Bty. Q.M.S. S. H. Newland, will be joined by another group of eight at Calgary. The men will then proceed to the Great Lakes area, where they will go on duty.

U.S. Provides Seed Market Growers Told

A large market for registered grain and forage crop seed is waiting for Alberta producers in the United States, members of the Alberta Seed Growers' Association were told by A. T. Sinclair, secretary-treasurer, at their annual meeting, held Tuesday in the Masonic Temple.

Mr. Sinclair gave a review of a recent trip he took through the United States, in which he made a survey of the seed situation.

"The Canadian forage crop seed standard is high," he said, "and the United States want to get seed from Canada. I believe this is an opportune time for Alberta farmers to get into the production of good registered seed."

The meeting passed a resolution urging the federal and provincial governments to obtain more equitable freight rates for seed grain from the Peace River country. It was pointed out at the meeting that the present rates for seed were: Calgary to lakehead, 53½ cents per 100 lbs.; Edmonton to lakehead, 53¼ cents; Athabasca to lakehead, 56 cents; Grande Prairie to lakehead, 76 cents.

A special committee to carry on negotiations for improved freight rates was appointed. The committeemen are Arthur Smith, Wembley; Percy Clubine, Grande Prairie, and Arnold Burgess, Beaverlodge.

Now directors elected at the meeting from members of the association were: D. Thomas, Mayerthorpe; L. Hendrigan, Winfield; H. E. Bronson, Cherhill; P. U. Clubine, Grande Prairie; J. M. McStaphs, Athabina. Directors from the members-at-large: H. P. Wright, Airdrie; L. C. Anderson, Bittern Lake; A. M. Smith, Wembley; C. C. Patching, Lethbridge and J. M. McElroy, Calgary.

Flocks of booby birds, hunting fish will dive in unison from a height of 70 feet and disappear in a flash.

An Apology!

It is with extreme regret we have to announce that owing to a sudden extended engagement we have been advised by the producers that "ONE FOOT IN HEAVEN" will not be available for the Edmonton showing until Wednesday next (January 28th).

After all our efforts to tell the people of Edmonton how wonderful this picture is, we feel happy to know that the people of another city have sustained our judgment.

REFUGEE — By Vida Hurst

When NANA DU VALL, orphaned refugee actress in America, STEVE ROBERTS, reporter, obtains a job for her as governess of NICKY CRAWFORD, Mrs. Crawford's sister, POLLY SPANTON, dislikes Nana because MARK PEPPER, Polly's heart interest, becomes interested in Nana. Nana is discharged, after having JAMES, the chauffeur, stop to pick up an old man James makes advances toward her and Nana dislikes him very much. Unable to find work, she accepts Marky's marriage proposal and permits him to pay her living expenses. Later, when she meets Steve, Mark is infuriated and calls off the wedding. Determined to repay Mark the money he has spent, Nana starts a Spanish course, with Steve as star pupil. This results in jealousy for BETSY WOODWARD, daughter of the publisher of the newspaper for which Steve works. She is engaged to Steve. She decides to hide the jealousy and ask Steve to take her to Nana for lessons. Mrs. Wilson, James' disreputive chauffeur, learns of Nana's whereabouts and goes to her apartment. She asks him to be leave. She calls Steve and tearfully explains the accident to him. He advises her to go out with other men. Two days later, Betsy comes and arranges to take three lessons a week, meanwhile dropping a hint that she and Steve may be married and go to South America. Betsy keeps all her lessons for three months during which Nana becomes languid and, saving every penny to pay back Mark, actually is hungry. Finally she is persuaded to go to dinner with BOB MEREDITH a reporter who has been taking lessons. As they start to dance, Betsy and Steve appear. They trade dances and the events of the evening leave Nana feeling that she has done something to vex Steve. Next day Nana mails the last of the money to Mark and then, weak from hunger, faints as she returns to her apartment. Steve, coming for his lesson, finds her and calls a doctor. Steve prepares food for Nana according to the doctor's orders and is with her that evening when Betsy arrives, furious with jealousy and accusing Steve of being in love with Nana.

CHAPTER XXVI

THE silence in the small room was broken by the roll of thunder no more threatening than Betsy's face. She had waited for Steve to deny her accusations. All he had to say was, "How ridiculous!" or, "You know there's no one else who really matters!" But Steve said nothing. He was staring out the window at the savage thrusts of lightning.

Nana, white and full of sympathy, dared not speak after Steve had commanded her to stay out of it. This was her fight and she had no right to interfere even to prove that Betsy was mistaken. At the moment Betsy would not have listened to her, anyway.

Since the other two refused to do so, Betsy was forced to speak again.

"If I'm wrong, Steve, why don't you say so?"

"I'm saying nothing," he affirmed. To Nana's surprise he did not even sound very angry. "You've stated my position for me, Betsy. There isn't anything more to say."

"You mean it's true?" Betsy persisted.

Steve smiled but not with satisfaction. There was something of pity in his expression as if he were sorry for Betsy instead of himself.

"Let's not argue about it," he said gently. "You have shown me how you feel about the whole thing. You want to call it off. Why not leave it there?"

The fact that she had no intention of leaving it there was evident, but Steve's words gave Betsy no choice. With a cry of pain and anger she rushed from the room.

The two she had just accused of being in love with each other remained silenced. Nana wanted to comfort Steve but did not know what to say. Steve continued to stare down into the street as if something very important were going on there. Presently he sighed. "Well, Nana, that's that."

"I'm so sorry, Steve . . . I'm afraid it's my fault . . . I shouldn't have let you stay here today."

"Skip it," he urged. "It had to happen some time." He began to walk restlessly about the room. "I must say it puts an entirely different light on things." Picking up the Spanish grammar he had been studying, he said, "This, for instance. I shan't need any more Spanish lessons."

"Why not?" Nana asked alarmed because if he didn't take lessons from her she would probably never see him.

"Because I won't be going to South America now," he affirmed bitterly. "Or anywhere else. I won't even be working for the damned paper."

"Oh, Steve," she cried rising from her place on the day bed. "You aren't going to quit? Just because of what she said."

"You're dead right I am. And now, this minute, before her father has a chance to fire me."

"But maybe he won't fire you," Nana said naively. "Maybe you're so necessary he won't want to."

"No one on any newspaper is indispensable," Steve informed her. "But even if I were, I wouldn't work for him after what Betsy said."

"No one who knows you could possibly believe that," Nana cried but Steve was untying the apron he still wore, throwing it into a corner of the room as if he hated it.

"I'm just lucky that she didn't wait until we were married to remind me of what everyone has been saying," he said.

Nana was so sorry for him she could have wept.

"Why don't you wait a few days?" she suggested. "She will probably be sorry tomorrow. I don't honestly think she wants to break your engagement!"

"She isn't going to have a chance to be sorry," Steve said grimly "This time she's gone too far."

He glanced at Nana as if suddenly remembering why he was there.

"Go lie down, kid! I won't be long and when I come back we'll have dinner. Don't worry about it. This is probably the best thing that has happened to me for a long time."

Nana did not believe it. She suspected that Steve was hurt far more than he would admit. His courage was that of bravado. And what would he do after he had given up his job? Would he be able to get another? She lay watching the storm, listening to the rain streaming in torrents down the window panes.

Without Betsy's lessons — or Steve's—her own situation would be precarious, but it was only Steve she was thinking of. He was so kind and good. If only he had permitted Nana to speak she might have made Betsy realize how innocent he was. Perhaps if she went to see Betsy . . .

Steve loved Betsy and no one knew it better than Nana. His attitude to her had never been at all romantic. He had kissed her once, moved by an impulse of pity. But no matter how it might look to someone else, Nana knew that he had only acted from generosity.

STEVE CHEERFUL

He returned remarkably cheerful for a man who had just renounced both sweetheart and job.

"I wrote a note and left it on his desk," Steve explained. "He will see it the first thing in the morning. And now, child, let's eat. It may be our last good meal for many a day."

Undeceived by his pretense of high spirits, Nana did not smile and misunderstanding her sober expression Steve cried, "I was only joking."

"You'll need what you have for yourself, Steve."

"I'm tired eating out," he insisted. "And you haven't so much to do that you can't cook. Just lunch and dinner. It will be cheaper for both of us."

"We'll see about it," she promised. Steve was very certain that everything was all over between Betsy and him. He had no idea of the plan developing in Nana's mind. Yet in spite of everything they shared a gala dinner. The roast and browned potatoes augmented with large sliced tomatoes, tall glasses of milk and chocolate cookies seemed like a banquet to Nana who ate more than she would of believed possible.

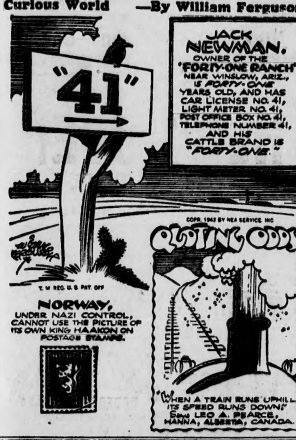

Steve was so silly. He made it all seem like a game. The storm had stopped, too, leaving the air newly washed and cool. Steve lighting a cigarette returned to his place by the window.

"I may not even try to get another job right away," he told her. "A little vacation will be good for me. I've been at it steadily for almost three years now. There are a couple of short stories I've been wanting to write. I'll toss those off before I get into the harness again. Besides I can probably sell a feature or two to the rival paper even if they can't take me on permanently."

Nana understood. He was putting up a brave front and she was proud of him. But she had ideas of her own which she had no intention of renouncing and the following morning found her at the telephone asking for Betsy.
